History of Marlboro

LAND GRANTS AND SETTLEMENT.

The town of Marlboro, together with the other towns of this group, is situated in the southwestern part of New Hampshire in that territory which was so long under dispute because of conflicting early grants and their indefinite boundaries. As early as 1629 Capt. John Mason procured from the Council of England a grant of land which he named New Hampshire from Hampshire County in England, and which was to include all lands "from the middle of Piscataqua river, and up the same to the farthest head thereof, and from thence northwestward until sixty miles from the mouth of the harbor be finished; also through Merrimac river to the farthest head thereof, and so forward up into the land westward until sixty miles are finished; and from thence to cross overland to the end of sixty miles accounted from the end of Piscataqua river." NOTE:—We wish to acknowledge our indebtedness and express our thanks for assistance given in compiling the historical section of this work to Charles A. Bemis of Marlboro, whose excellent "History of Marlboro" we have freely drawn from; to Melvin T. Stone, M. D., of Troy, who also allowed the use of important data from his recent complete history of that town; to S. H. Mower, F. P. Wellman, and others of East Jaffrey, and to Obadiah Sprague and Dr. G. I. Cutler of Swanzey, to the pastors of many churches, and all others who have so kindly aided in preparing this work.

grant was for many years supposed to extend to the western boundary of Marlboro. Capt. Mason died soon after acquiring the grant and the rights of proprietorship were many times transferred until 1746 when the charter was purchased by twelve men later known as the Masonian Proprietors. The number of proprietors was soon after increased to twenty-one who held the rights to eighteen shares.

The Masonian Proprietors soon began laying out townships. The lands around Monadnock, up to this time, were uninhabited save by the Indians who roved over this region and the native wild animals as yet undisturbed. Eight "Monadnock Townships" were laid out, one of which, "Monadnock No. 5," granted in 1751, was the present town of Marlboro. This town was granted by Joseph Blanchard to Joseph Morrison and thirty-three others under date of Dec. 6, 1751 and was estimated to contain 2,000 acres.

SETTLEMENT.

Whether any attempt at settlement was made by these grantees is not known but it is probable that the purchase was made at a business speculation for we find in 1761 a number of persons residing in Westboro and Marlboro, Mass., obtained interest in the township. Among the twenty-eight names given in this list, William Barker, Isaac McAlister, Richard Tozier and Daniel Goodenow were also among the first settlers.

For many years following this date or until most of the lands had been disposed of to settlers the business of the township was carried on as a proprietary. By their votes taken April 30, 1762, the town was laid out in 100-acre lots and the drawing of the same was done Nov. 22, 1762. The survey was done by Jonathan Livermore, Noah Church and Isaac McAlister. The proprietors now directed their attention to laying out roads, one from "Dooblin to Keen" being the earliest in town. These early ways were scarcely more than bridle paths but offered to the home seekers a sufficient if not a comfortable means of egress.

William Barker, a native of Westboro, Mass., and one of the proprietors mentioned, was the first to make a settlement within the bounds of Monadnock No. 5. He came in 1761 and selected a location on "West Hill," now in Troy, but made no clearing until the following year. In 1764, he erected a log cabin and brought in his wife and three small children, arriving at their new home Sept. 17, 1764. Isaac McAlister soon after removed his family to the log house he had constructed. His wife was a sister to Mrs. Barker and at this time had four children. The following year Silas Fife, from Bolton, Mass., settled in that part of the town later set off to form the town of Troy. In August, Benjamin Tucker, wife and seven children came from Leicester, Mass., and settled on the hill where he opened a tavern after the opening of the great road from Keene to Boston. Mr Tucker was the first inn-keeper in town and was one of the foremost men in the early settlement for many years. At his inn the proprietors' meetings were often held. Daniel Goodenow and family also came the same year from old Marlboro', for which place the new settlement later took its name. Abel Woodward also came to the vicinity of the village that year.

But there were no mills yet erected within the bounds of the township to attract settlers to this place. Daniel Harrington drew the "Mill Right," but not until 1767 did he build the first saw-mill, with the help of the proprietors. That season Jedediah Maynard erected a framed house on the farm now owned by Ivory E. Gates and now forms the eastern section of his house. Abijah Tucker also erected a house on the site of the Congregational Church. Among other arrivals that season were Joseph Collins and family, Thomas Riggs and John Felton. At the close of this year a census taken shows 93 persons living in Monadnock No. 5. Because of a petition made the Provincial Congress, on account of delinquent grantees, we have, under date of 1770, a complete list of settlers in town at that date, as shown by Col. Enoch Hale, of Rindge. From this list we find that Joshua Tucker, James Tiffany, Richard Tozier, William Adams, Joseph Peck, David Warren, Benedict Webber, Jonathan Shaw, Jonas Harrington, James Crossman, Thaddeus Hastings, James Brewer, Richard Roberts, Stephen Church, Samuel Bishop and Jonathan Goodenow had settled here; also Silas Hooker and Jonathan Nichols had made some improvements on their lots.

From this time until the breaking out of the Revolution, many new settlers came to the township each year until this became a thriving community of hardy, industrious citizens prepared for the duties and privileges of home government. Of this number we would mention David Wheeler, Reuben

Ward and Jedediah Tayntor from Marlboro, Mass.; David Thurston, from Leominster; Jonathan Frost, from Sherburn; William Tenney, from Littleton; Robert Converse and Oliver Wright, residence unknown. Mills had been erected and were in operation for the convenience of the settlers, as shown under the chapter on industries; and the meeting house had been erected by the proprietors. In 1774 an attempt was made to secure incorporation which was granted in part but it was not until 1776 that the proprietary was fully incorporated. For some years the place had been known as New Marlborough so that upon incorporation the present name fell gracefully upon the new town.

INCORPORATION.

In response to a petition made by the settlers in the township the grant of land originally made as Monadnock No. 5 was incorporated a town in December, 1776. The petition was made by the hand of Lieut. Eliphalet Stone, a prominent and educated man who was of great service to the young organization. The call for the first town meeting was issued by David Wheeler, calling the citizens to assemble at the meeting house on March 11, 1777 to elect officers for performing the town's business. Thomas Riggs was first chosen moderator of the meeting; David Wheeler was chosen clerk; Capt. James Lewis, treasurer; Capt. James Lewis, Lieut. Eliphalet Stone and Richard Tozier, selectmen and assessors. Among the minor officers were tithingmen, hog-reeves, "Dear Reaffs," fence viewers, surveyors, a constable and a committee of safety.

In 1812 the residents in the northern part of this town, together with those in the southwestern part of Packersfield (now Nelson) and eastern Kenne were incorporated a separate town under the name of Roxbury. By this act two ranges of lots were severed from Marlboro. For many years the residents in the southern part of this town, together with their neighbors in Fitzwilliam, Swanzey and Richmond, had sought to be incorporated a separate town. By this time there was a large settlement in this section which was isolated from the rest of the town by the interlying hills. On June 23, 1815 this place was incorporated the town of Troy which took from Marlboro not only a large portion of her territory but some of her most enterprising men.

MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES.

About the year 1767 Joseph Collins built a saw and grist mill in the northern part of the town on Richardson brook near the bridge east of the Richardson place. This was the first grist mill in town. The same year Daniel Harrington completed his saw mill on the "mill right." Not far from this time Abijah Tucker built a saw and grist mill on the site of the mill now owned by the Monadnock Blanket Mills. The erection of these mills did much towards advancing the settlement of the town for earlier there had been no grist mill nearer than six miles to which the corn or rye must be carried, often on the back of the settler, over ways that were rough and hilly. In the early days the town abounded in favorable sites for mills on the rapid streams and many of rather small dimensions were built and operated for the manufacture of lumber, staves, pail stock, clothes pins, etc., besides carding and fulling mills. A detailed account of these various industries may be found in the "History of Marlboro," by Mr. Bemis, so we will confine our account to the industries now in operation and the earlier mills which have occupied the same sites.

The manufacturing of horse-blankets is now the leading milling industry in town. This was begun in the autumn of 1866 by a company of local business men who organized the Marlboro Manufacturing Co., bought the brick mill formerly used by George Thatcher, and the following spring began the manufacture of horse-blankets. In 1870 they purchased the pail factory of D. W. & W. M. Tenney which they converted into a woolen mill. In 1877, Rufus S. Frost and others succeeded the original proprietors. At this time the capital stock was $40,000 and employment was given to ninety hands.

The Monadnock Blanket Co. was incorporated in 1868 by the late Charles Shrigley and others at which time they purchased the Holman Mill and began the manufacture of horse-blankets the following year. Later it passed into the control of W. H. Wilkinson and others. In 1887, the present owners, Richardson & Pease, succeeded to the business under the name Monadnock Blanket Mills. This plant was originally known as the stone mill and was opened with two sets of cards. It was soon increased to three sets and was so operated for many years. In 1888 alterations were begun and extensive improvements made. The picker-house was destroyed by fire in 1894, loss $8,000. This was at once rebuilt, this time of brick and a water tower and large tank added so the mills are now fully equipped with fire sprinklers. This is now known as a five-set mill and produces street and stable blankets, also a line of camp blankets. In 1888 this firm purchased the "brick mill" which stood next below on the same stream. Eighty-five hands are employed who are paid monthly $2,600. Messrs. Richardson and Pease attend to operating the business.

The Cheshire Blanket Co. was formed in 1873 and began the manufacture of blankets in the mill which Mr. Whitney had erected in 1869 for a chair shop. Extensive improvements have been made to the plant from time to time which now employs over one hundred hands and does $125,000 worth of business annually. Messrs. Whitney and Clark have remained in possession and are the managers. This is a seven-set mill.

Horse blankets and satinetts are manufactured. The mill is fully equipped with an electric lighting system of some 150 lights which was installed about fifteen years ago.

The Wet Wash Laundry now occupies the mill formerly occupied by J. Townsend for the manufacture of woolen goods. For ten years following the death of Mr. Townsend this business was run by his sons.

Another important industry here is the manufacture of wooden pails which was introduced into town by Robert Carpenter around 1825. Early methods were slow and tedious but improvements were soon thought out and the business became more extensive under such men as Mr. Carpenter, Charles Cooledge, Calvin Page, Jedediah T. Collins, George and James Harvey, Joseph Cummings, George Holman, Asa Bemis, Nathan Winch, Amasa Fuller and others. J. D. Tuttle is now the only man interested in the manufacture of wooden pails in Marlboro. His mill was formerly owned by Nathan Winch, who was succeeded by his son, George F. Winch. About 1893, W. W. Richardson bought the plant and in 1902 the present owner began business here. From 7,000 to 8,000 dozen are manufactured annually, giving enployment to seven men.

The manufacture of lock-corner boxes has now become a leading business in town. In 1898 the Monadnock Toy Box Co. was formed, succeeding Knowlton Bros. in the saw-mill at the west end of the village. Over twenty hands are here employed in the box shop which turns out an average of some 3,000 pieces daily. The saw-mill connected, where the stock is prepared, employs five hands. T. H. Mahon is proprietor.

D. J. Hart began the lock-corner box business in 1892 in the mill now occupied by Whitney Bros. Co. In 1900 he removed to the Thurston Mfg. Co.'s building which had been occupied for the manufacture of screws, screw-knobs, and the Companion sewing machine by Messrs. Thurston and Fowler, and later as a skate factory. Mr. Hart does an annual business of around $43,000, employs from 26 to 28 hands whose pay-roll amounts to $10,000 yearly.

Whitney Bros. Co., toy manufacturers, are doing an extensive business in the mill formerly used as a box and octagon pail shop. This mill was erected by Joseph Collins about 1840 and for many years was operated by Stillman Buss, who conducted one of the best flouring mills in Cheshire County. The present business was established in 1903 by C. A. Whitney and C. F. Pierce. Mr. Pierce sold his interest that autumn to Mr. Whitney who had been joined by his brothers. The company was incorporated Jan. 15, 1908. All kinds of small wooden toys are manufactured, largely for the Christmas trade. The shops have a capacity of twenty-five hands but do not employ this force until the last of the season. The business done during 1907 amounted to $14,000.

Perley C. White is operating a custom long and short lumber mill. This was known as the Knowlton Mill for many years, but was carried on by Ashley White, father of the present proprietor, until one year ago.

At Marlboro Depot, Levi A. Fuller is engaged in the manufacture of chair stock, shingles, pail-bails, etc., in a mill erected by him in 1872. An earlier mill was destroyed by fire; in this Mr. Fuller succeeded his father in 1863. Another mill located here and now used by Mr. Fuller has been operated by Amos Fuller in the manufacture of pails until quite recently. Between these mills is the sash and blind factory which was until recently operated by Sherman Bros.

Since the middle of the last century the machinist business has been an important one in this town. This was established in 1847 by Charles Buss. He was several times compelled to enlarge his shops on account of the growing business, manufacturing different kinds of wood-working machinery. Christopher Hodgkins commenced the machinist business in 1854. He invented or improved the circular vent water-wheel, sewing machines, wood-working machinery and water-rams. In 1876, he purchased the shops formerly occupied by Charles Buss, where the business is now conducted by C. Hodgkins & Sons. Wood-working machinery and water-rams are now manufactured.

A ledge of fine, white granite, located near the center of the town has been worked off and on for sixty or more years. Asa Greenwood, Jonathan Jones and A. G. Mann have owned and operated this at various times. It is now operated by the Webb Granite & Construction Co.

MILITARY MATTERS.

Situated less than one hundred miles from Boston the news of the battle of Concord and Lexington soon reached the frontier settlement arousing the men and boys with a determination to defend their homes. Soon several from this town had joined the troops in Boston and were present at the Battle of Bunker Hill, in the thick of the fight. Space forbids us to give a full account of the part taken by these and many others from this town who entered the service of the Colonies in defense of freedom or to mention separately the long list of valiant men who later took up their residence in Marlboro after aiding in gaining American independence. For such an account we would refer our readers to Mr. Bemis' excellent history. Suffice it to say here that the town may well be proud of the noble action of her men at home and on the battle-field for it was only by combined action of such deeds of sacrifice and valor that they were able to throw off the yoke of British power.

During the War of 1812-14 the trained troops of this town stood ready to give such assistance as might be called for. In 1814 a call was made for men to defend the forts at Portsmouth. Troops from this and surrounding towns were made up and were marched to the city. No attack was made on the city as was expected and after a few weeks' service they returned home. During the following years of peace the men were regularly trained for military service and the muster days when the troops were called out in full splendor were generally the gala-days in the town's social attainments.

At the breaking out of the Civil War the martial spirit of this liberty-loving people was again to the front. It is said that Thos. L. White, who enlisted from this town was the first to enlist from Cheshire County. Many of the men from this town enlisted at Keene, the mustering center of the locality. The record of these men in battle and in camp does credit to their noble ancestry and will remain an honor to their native town. Following is a list of the men credited to this town who enlisted during the service:—

Thomas L. White, James Totten, John Totten in 1st N. H. Reg.; Levi N. Converse (became Lieut.-Col.) Daniel B. Woodward, Wm. H. Tenney, Jas. Newell, Mirrick H. Ross, Amaziah Sawtelle, Asa M. White, Rhodolphus I. White, Lucius F. Hunt, Amos L. Corey, Mark True Greenwood, Cyrus E. Hardy, Augustus C. White, Milton G. Razey, Second N. H. Reg.

In the Sixth N. H. Regiment, Nelson Converse was commissioned Colonel, Calvin Stone, Falis H. Castone, Edw. F. Adams, Wm. A. Russell, Thos. L. White, Geo. V. R. Farnum, Arculus Vicar, Chas. L Clark, Oscar W. Farnum, Chas. A. Field, John H. Priest, Henry A. Atherton, Geo. H. Smith, Chas. W. Pike, Francis M. Farrar, Everett F. Gates, Geo. Tilden. In the Fourteenth N. H. Reg., mustered in 1862: Jas. Totten, Christopher Totton, Wm. Collins, Enoch Foster, Geo. H. Stone, Geo. H. Stockwell, Alphonso A. Adams, Perley E. Collins, Delevan C. Richardson, Nath. P. Rust, Theodore Pope, Sumner L. McCollester, Wm. H. Pierce, Luke Knowlton Jr., Chas. A. Mason, Edwin B. Mathews, Eben T. Greenwood, Charles Knowlton.

Melvin H. Collins, Co. F, 2d Reg. U. S. Sharpshooters and Asa C Dort who served as Quartermaster Sergeant, Co. D., 1st N. H. Cav., were volunteers. Horace O Lewis, Co. D, 5th Reg. was drafted September, 1863 with thirteen others. The rest paid $300 commutation money. The whole number of men furnished by the town was ninety-eight, some being foreign substitutes.

The following veterans of the Civil War are now residing in Marlboro:—A. A. Adams, G. W. Atherton, M J. Buss, C. L. Clark, G. G. Davis, J. R. Farnum, Corp. John M. Fox. C. W. Gould, H. E. Goodrich, Clark Hill, Luke Knowlton, E. B. Mathews, W. R. Mellen, Newell McQuaid, C. A. Pelkey, D. C. Richardson, George Shattuck, G. H. Smith, L G. Starkey. The veterans in this town are members of the John Sedgwick Post, No. 4, G. A. R., in Keene.

Spanish War Soldiers:—Hugh Mahon, Lawrence Cushing, Joseph H. Mason, Ernest Harvey (navy).

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

At the time of granting townships on the New England frontier affairs of church and state had not become divorced. The charter of Monadnock No. 5 required that the proprietors should erect a meeting house in the township within ten years from date unless prevented by Indian wars. The charter also provided a lot of land to be reserved for the ministry and one for the first settled minister. As in some other matters of hastening the settlement the proprietors were somewhat dilatory in providing the meetinghouse until the matter was taken up by settlers who raised money by subscription to build the same. After some contention between the proprietors and the settlers the frame for a house fifty by forty feet was erected in 1770 on the northwest corner of the common, chosen as the center of the town. This house was not finished until fifteen years later when the proprietors who had been assessed for part of the expense, gave up all claim to the property and it passed into the possession of the town.

The earliest record of preaching in town is given under date of 1771 when a committee was appointed to provide a preacher and a tax levied for his payment. Occasional preaching was enjoyed until Nov. 11, 1778, when Rev. Joseph Cummings was ordained the first settled pastor in Marlboro and it is probable the first church body was organized at this time. The pastorate of Rev. Mr. Cummings proved unfortunate for the church and on Dec. 29, 1780 his connection was severed. The condition of the church was left so unsettled that no stated preaching was had for several years, the pulpit being frequently filled by pastors from surrounding churches. The next settled pastor was Rev. Halloway Fish, a devoted and consecrated man, during whose long pastorate the church became greatly strengthened. In 1822 forty were added to the church and during his pastorate one hundred and seventy-eight were accepted to membership. At the close of his pastorate, which terminated by his death Sept. 1, 1824, the church as a town organization was dissolved and on September 25 "The First Evangelical Congregational Church in Marlboro" was formed. Other denominations had withdrawn so that from this time the history of the religious life in town is largely the history of the different denominations. The Center Meeting-house was occupied by each of the denominations which had a following in town, each their proportionate share of time. In 1834 extensive repairs were done by subscription on the meeting-house and a bell was hung in the new tower. Gradually the house was deserted for more modern structures erected by the denominations in the growing village and the house was for many years unoccupied.

In 1825, Rev. Salmon Bennett became pastor of the Congregational society for five and a half years, followed by Rev. Erastus Curtis for one year. Later the society disbanded.

The members now, June 25, 1833, united in forming the Trinitarian Congregational Society of Marlboro and soon after erected the present brick church around which the village has sprung up. The next pastor was Rev. Moses G. Grosvenor, 1835-40, followed by Rev. Giles Lyman, 1840-68. During this time the church was greatly increased, the building enlarged and the parsonage erected. In 1869, Rev. A. B. Earle, an evangelist conducted powerful revival services here and the same year Rev. Silas P. Cook of Keene became pastor but was, at his request dismissed in February, 1870. Succeeding pastors have been Rev. John L. Merrill, 1870-87; G. W. Patterson, 1887-88; Quincy Blackley, 1888-91; W. H. Alexander, 1891-93; John S. Colby, 1893-98; A. J. Smith, 1898-1902, and Rev. David Wallace, 1902-November, 1907. The present membership is about 175. A strong Christian Endeavor Society is an efficient auxiliary to the church work.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The first Methodist class in Marlboro was gathered in 1796 by Rev. Philip Wager. This consisted of seven members, with M. J. Colburn of Rindge, class leader. Three years prior to this John Hill had preached this faith in this and surround- occasional preaching being enjoyed. Alfred and Daniel Metcalf, members of this class became preachers of the faith early in its history and the church became of great influence in the community. After half a century of progress, which was somewhat disturbed by internal discord the society erected a church at Pottersville, then near the geographical center of the charge. This was in 1842-43, under the charge of Rev. John Smith. For many years the church enjoyed a healthy growth. During the pastorate of Rev. T. L. Fowler, 1858-60, the Baptist Church having disbanded, their church home in Marlboro village was purchased by this society and became their place of worship. The church continued to prosper and during the pastorate of Rev. Irad Taggart, 1866-67, the parsonage was constructed at a cost of $1,800. Later a stable was added. In 1891-92, extensive additions were made to the church edifice at a cost of $3,700 and on Nov. 14 and 15, 1893 was held the Centennial Celebration of Methodism in Marlboro.

Recent extensive repairs were begun on the church in 1905 when the building was raised nine feet and a vestry, kitchen and furnace room put in. The next season a new steel ceiling was put on the main room. The present membership numbers ninety, most of whom are resident. An Epworth League was organized in 1889 and is an active aid to church work. Recent pastors have been Revs. C. J. Chase, 1885-86; N. C. Alger, 1887; J. H. Brown, 1888; J. W. Bean, 1889-90; G. W. Buzzell, 1891-95; D. J. Smith, 1896-98; William Thompson, 1899-1900; Claudius Byrne, 1901-02; A. M. Markley, 1903-06, and the present pastor, Rev. A. W. Frye, who was appointed in 1907.

BAPTIST.

There were members of the Baptist faith in town as early as 1778 who connected themselves with the church in Dublin. These later occupied the town meeting-house a small portion of the time but remained few in number until after the formation of a church society in 1837, when twenty-three men signed the society pledge. Stated preaching was had from 1839 much of the time for twenty years and in 1843 a house of worship was erected. From this date little progress seems to have been made while by deaths and removals the membership became weakened and in 1862 the church was disbanded.

GREENWOOD MEMORIAL CHURCH—UNIVERSALIST.

The earliest records found of a Universalist society in Marlboro bear the date of 1805 when the constitution was subscribed to by sixteen members. Occasional preaching was had by itinerant preachers of this faith up to 1816 when a new constitution was adopted and Rev. Robert Bartlett ordained. In 1835, Rev. J. V. Wilson of Jaffrey formed a society here of forty members which seems to have been the real beginning of prosperity in the church. A library was established the same year. In 1851, the church edifice was built by Asa Greenwood and others, Mr. Greenwood being the prime mover in the enterprise. This building was, in 1887, raised up to add a vestry and kitchen, and remodeled throughout by the gift of $3,000 from Mrs. Wm. Henry Greenwood, and named the Greenwood Memorial Church in honor of her husband, the son of Asa Greenwood. Beautiful memorial windows were presented by different members. The church was re-organized in 1875. Since that time the following men have been pastors:— Revs. H. Wells Hand, B. D., Oct., 1874-77; E. B. Burgess, 1877-80 (?); R. T. Polk, 1880 (?)-84; B. G. Russell, 1886-90; R. D. Towne, 1890-93; C. F. McIntire, 1893-1904; E. W. Webber, 1904-06, and Rev. John Kimball, who became pastor June 1, 1906. The church membership now numbers about sixty. There is a Y. P. C. U. of fifty members and a Junior society of thirty members.

CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Father J. Monge was the earliest settled rector in town coming here in 1886. Prior to this time this had been a mission church under the care of the resident priest in Keene, the services being first conducted in the town hall. On July 26, 1891, Father D. C. Ling said mass in this church and remained until 1899. During the first year he erected the rectory beside the church on the street bearing his name. In November, 1899, Rev. C. Houle became rector. In January, 1901, the church was burned and the present edifice erected at a cost of $6,000, was opened for services in September that year. Father Houle died October 15, following and in November, Fr. H. J. Bellefleur, the present rector, came to the care of the church. The Catholic population of Marlboro now numbers 488, or 115 families.

The quarries have brought in quite a large number of Finns who have erected two chapels near the quarries where services are often held.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The subject of education early became one of interest on the frontier. Many of the settlers who had come from towns where the public schools were beginning to receive considerable attention were ready to sacrifice many comforts in the interest of offering to their children better school facilities. But ere the new town became well organized greater questions than education filled the public mind and for a period the problem of defending their declared freedom so engrossed their minds that little attention was given to unnecessary claims. During these years the town was not without schools entirely, for in 1767 the lot given by the charter for public schools was leased to Benjamin, Joshua and Moses Tucker for a term of one hundred years for £33. 6s. 8d. This fund produced a small amount for education. This seems to have been first used in 1770 when William Barker, Isaac McAlister and Richard Roberts were appointed a committee to expend the accumulated interest. During the following winter several schools were kept in various parts of the town one of which was in the house of Phineas Farrar, taught possibly by James Brewer. In 1777, a vote was passed dividing the town into "four equal squadrons for schooling." By the lines of this division the town was practically quartered. The next year the sum of £100 was raised for education but it appears this sum was not expended for some time. In 1788 the town again voted to district the town. In 1794 the town was divided into eight districts, three of which fell within the limits of the present town of Troy. The first schoolhouse in the village district was built prior to or during 1789 when the land was leased from Abijah Tucker. This stood on lot 39. The house was of rude construction, rough-boarded, and was heated by a fireplace large enough to take sticks four feet long. In 1807 this house gave place to a better one located on the same spot. The first house in the Center district was situated at the crossroads a little southwest of the old meeting-house. In 1840 this district was divided among three schools. The history of the schools in town from the time of their establishment until they were consolidated under the direction of the town is principally the history of the several districts into which the town was divided, a full account of which would fill a large volume and were it to picture the men who have been variously connected with their progress it would be a volume well worth reading. Some of the early masters were efficient principally in discipline so that if they were unable to lead their pupils throught the mazes of arithmetic or grammar they were able to instill a wholesome respect for the birch rod when wielded by a master hand.

The progress made by the local schools kept well abreast of the prosperity of the community. Gradually the rude houses were replaced by larger and more comfortable structures. In later years when the population had become clustered around the village many of the outlying houses became deserted while a new and elegant school building adorned the populated center. There are now but two schools in Marlboro outside the village. Here all scholars are accommodated in one building which was greatly enlarged and remodeled twenty-three years ago at a cost of $3,500.

S. H. McCollester, D.D., a native of Marlboro and a noted educator, has done much to advance the standing of the local schools. From 1856 to 1859 he filled the office of County Commissioner of Schools, prior to which he had formed the first superintending school district in the state by combining four towns, of which this was one, under his care. This was the first town in the state to have graded schools, introduced by Dr. McCollester, under whose direction the town schools have made unusual advancement. The High School, taught by Mr. Caswell, a graduate of Bates College, has 45 students pursuing one of two courses offered. The other grades are well handled by competent instructors.

PHYSICIANS.

The first practicing physician to settle within this town was Dr. Justus Perry, a native of Barre, Mass., who came here in 1786. In 1796 he removed to the south part of the town in what is now the town of Troy. Dr. Kendall Bruce, the next physician, was a native of Marlboro, Mass. He came here as early as 1793 but after a few years removed to Washington, N. H. Dr. David Carter came here soon after completing his studies in 1795; removed to Peterboro in 1812. Dr. E. K. Frost began practicing here soon after Dr. Carter's removal. He was a native of Jaffrey. After remaining here some six years he settled in Swanzey. In 1818, Dr. James Batcheller came here for the practice of this profession. He was a successful physician and a leading citizen until about 1855 when he removed to Fitzwilliam. Dr. Samuel A. Richardson of Dublin succeeded Dr. Bacheller. In 1862, Dr. Richardson enlisted in the United States service and was appointed assistant surgeon. In April following he was promoted to surgeon His conduct and services were of the most commendable character both in the army and in his local practice. After the close of hostilities he returned to this town where he remained the beloved physician for many years. Dr. Samuel J. Martin located here in 1863, and remained until April, 1866. Dr. George L. Harrington precticed in town from 1872 to 1880 when he removed to the West. Dr. N. H. Morrian succeeded him until 1887 when Dr. Walton H. Aldrich of Swanzey located here. Dr. James A. Leet, who located here prior to 1885 was followed by Dr. Wm. G Cain, Dr Charles A. Smith, Dr. N. F. Cheever and Dr. L. G. Hildreth. Drs. Aldrich and Hildreth are the present practicing physicians.

FROST FREE LIBRARY.

This magnificent gift was made the town in 1866 by Hon. Rufus S. Frost of Chelsea, Mass., a native of Marlboro. By his munificence a fine granite building was erected on South Main street and two thousand volumes of selected books placed on its shelves. Aug. 26, 1867 the building was dedicated and formally accepted by the town, together with a fund of $5,000 from the same donor, the fund to be invested, the interest only to be used annually for replenishing and adding new works. The number of volumes is now over 6100 of unusually choice literature which has a weekly circulation of 150 volumes. Miss Carrie Knowlton is librarian, succeeding Charles A. Bemis, who succeeded Elijah Boyden, Esq.

Situated in front of the library stands the new Soldiers' Monument which was erected by an appropriation of the town. The base is of granite from the Marlboro quarry and is surmounted by a bronze statue eight feet in height. The monument is about twenty feet tall and stands facing the main street which here is divided by the library lot. It was dedicated Sept. 19, 1894. The cost of $1,500 only partially represents the value of its superior workmanship and goodly proportions for by the liberality of the proprietor of the quarry a much better monument was provided than that sum would have purchased elsewhere.

The Marlboro Electric Light, Heat & Power Co. was organized and erected the power station which is located about one mile from the village, in 1901. This company is capitalized at $15,000. At this time fifty-two incandescent lights are connected on the streets of the village.

History of Troy

SETTLEMENT.

The history of Troy as a distinct town begins many years after its forests had become broken or leveled by the woodsman's axe and after the waters of the beautiful village stream had been harnessed to operate the wheels of several early industries. Prior to 1815 the lands now forming this thrifty town formed parts of the surrounding townships of Marlboro, Fitzwilliam, Richmond and Swanzey, placing the earliest records in the annals of those towns.

Marlboro and Fitzwilliam contributed most of the territory. The latter town was granted about the same time as Marlboro and was earliest known as Monadnock, No. 4. The first settlers in No. 4 were John Fassett, Daniel Millen, James Reed, Benjamin Bigelow and others, but the first settlement within the present town of Troy was made by William Barker and Silas Fife on West Hill and East Hill respectively then in Monadnock No. 5. Mr. Barker selected his location in 1761 and three years later brought his family to the log cabin he had here erected for a home. The following year Mr. Fife, a single man, purchased the lot which was later occupied by Deacon Abel Baker. In 1772 he married Abagail Houghton of Boston. In 1767 and 1768 a large number of settlers took up lots in the Monadnock townships. Among these were the following who came to the lands now within the town of Troy: Thomas Tolman, who soon after built a grist mill and later a saw mill where he sawed boards for the first framed house in town; Phineas Farrar, Col. Richard Roberts, James Brewer, a man of some education; John Farrar, Caleb Winch, Jonathan Shaw, Jonah Harrington, David Wheeler, Joseph Tiffany and Ezekiel Mixer. These were all men of strong, sturdy character, enured to hardships and of untiring energy. For supplies they must depend upon Winchendon, Northfield, or some distant point while the roads at this time were often little better than impassable. But yearly improvements were made, the openings became larger and more numerous, and soon many settlers' cabins were found scattered over the hillsides of the Monadnock grants.

During the twelve years from 1768 to 1780 but few settlers came to the new country arising doubtless from the unsettled condition of the colonies in the growing controversy with Great Britain. Several immigrants arrived, however, the most of whom were Benamin Tolman, brother to Thomas; Jacob Newell, who was the second settler in what is now the village; Moses Kenney, Henry Morse, Daniel Lawrence, Daniel Cutting, who purchased a farm at the north end of the town and built a saw mill near the site of C. D. Farrar's pail shop; Joseph Cutting, a brother, came from Marlboro, Mass., in 1775;Moses Cutting was another brother and settler; Reuben Ward, a thrifty and wealthy pioneer; Ichabod Shaw, Peter Starkey, Jonathan Lawrence, Joshua Harrington, an early millman; Duncan Cameron, John Bruce, Thomas Clark, Aga-bus Bishop, Abner Haskell, Joseph Foristall, the widow of John Godding with four sons, John, Timothy, William and Asa, and four daughters; Alexander Parkman, Joseph Nourse and Daniel Farrar.

During the remaining twenty years of the century a rapid increase was made in the settlement both by the arrival of new families and by birth to the families already settled. Of the new families that settled prior to 1790 were John and Jonathan Whitney, brothers, from Dunstable; George Farrar, brother to Daniel; Jason Winch, brother to Caleb; Joseph Parker, Jonas Warren, Daniel Gould, Nathaniel Kimball, Hezekiah and Abraham Coolidge, Ephraim Root, who erected the fifth frame house in town; Benoni Robbins and James Dean.

In 1790 there was a larger number of new inhabitants who came to town than in any previous year since 1768. Among these were Jonathan Whipple, Jonathan Ball, Nathan Platts and John Sweetland, besides several others who remained but a short time. Talmon Knights came from Templeton, Mass., in 1791; John Garfield, from Lincoln, Mass., in 1792; Elijah Alexander, from Uxbridge, in 1793; Stephen Russell, Abraham Randall, Silas Cook, Isaac Jackson, William Starkey and Ichabod Woodward came about this time. Jonas Robeson, an early trader, came in 1791 or the year following. Others were Silas Wheeler, John Rogers, David Saunders, Ebenezer Saunders, Ezekiel White, Nathaniel Bucklin, Jonathan Capron, Christopher Harris, Elijah Fuller and Capt. Isaac Fuller, brothers, Asa Brewer, Zopher Whitcomb, John Joy, Joseph French, Hugh Thompson, John and David Garey, brothers, from Leominster (came prior to 1790), besides others who have not taken so prominent a part in the town's affairs or whose stay was of short duration.

The above we consider the pioneers although some of those who arrived after the dawn of the last century probably began their lives here as had the first comers, on lots yet uncleared, yet the hardships of pioneering had become alleviated by the improved highways, the mills, stores, schools and the closer proximity of friends and neighbors. During the fifteen years prior to the incorporation of Troy the settlement here became a thriving business community, new and valued citizens came annually, new enterprises were opened, many and better homes erected and the general condition of society and living advanced.

INCORPORATION.

The town of Troy is the youngest of this group, being formed from territory taken from the towns of Marlboro, Fitzwilliam, Swanzey and Richmond. The earliest recorded agitation for forming a new town was in 1781. At this time nothing was effected but the question was not allowed to die. The village of Troy was located near the border line of Marlboro and Fitzwilliam and not far from the lines of the other towns mentioned. From here to the center of these respective towns the roads were hilly and often well-night impassable, which rendered it tedious and difficult to attend public worship and other public duties. As the contest became warmer, as a result of one of the frequent citizens' meetings held at the village settlement, a new church was begun here in 1813 and two years later the consent of the towns of Fitzwilliam and Marlboro were secured to relinquish portions of their territory. Swanzey and Richmond were already willing to contribute such smaller portions of their territory as had petitioned for separation and on June 23, 1815, the act incorporating the Town of Troy received the signature of Governor J. T. Gilman.

The first town meeting was held on July 20, 1815, at the meeting-house, Col. Sylvester P. Flint chosen moderator. Daniel W. Farrar was chosen town clerk, which office he filled with but three intermissions, until 1844. George Farrar was elected treasurer and the following were chosen the first board of selectmen: Daniel W. Farrar, William Barnard and Sylvester P. Flint. Abraham Coolidge was made constable and tax collector; Peter Starkey and Joseph C. Davenport, tythingmen; Joshua Harrington, Esq., and James Godfrey, fence viewers, and Luke Harris, sexton.

The year following $300 was appropriated for highways, $250 for schools and $600 for town charges.

MILLS AND INDUSTRIES.

At a meeting of the proprietors of Monadnock No. 4 held at the inn of Capt. Thomas Cowdin in Fitchburg, Oct. 11, 1768, it was voted that the sum of £20, lawful money, be paid to Col. Sampson Stoddard in consideration of his conveyance to Dr. Gideon Tiffany two lots of land to build a grist mill on, which sum was to be in full for the same. For some reason the mill built by Tiffany was not accepted by the proprietors, and at a meeting held March 4, 1772 a committee was chosen to put in execution the bond given by Tiffany, to build and keep in good repair a grist mill, or to make some proper settlement with him regarding the mill. Soon after this the mill was completed and put in order by Thomas Tolman. This mill, which stood where the old blanket mill stands, answered the purpose of the proprietors. A little later he erected near it a good sawmill, which was close by the spot where the highway crosses the stream. Joshua Harrington purchased the property about 1780. The saw mill was not long used but the grist mill for a long time was known far and wide as the "Harrington mill" and was continued in operation by Mr. Harrington and his sons until about 1834, or more than fifty years. *

Other early saw mills were built and operated by Daniel Cutter, Ephraim Root, Hezekiah Hodgkins, the latter on East Hill and Luke Parkhurst on West Hill. Phineas Farrar built an early grist mill at the north end in 1784.

The manufacture of wooden ware is one of the most important industries in town and has been carried on ever since Thomas Clark began making mortars, spools, plates, bowls and trays in 1779.

The manufacture of pails was begun here before 1825 by Moses Curtis whose shop later passed into the hands of Luke Harris and Charles Coolidge who continued the business until 1859. In the spring of 1845 Capt. Solomon Goddard and Edwin Buttrick formed a partnership and built the brick pail shop now in use. In 1866, Asa C. Dort became a partner with Mr. Buttrick. In June, 1878, the larger part of the shop was destroyed by fire but was soon rebuilt in its present form. Since the death of Mr. Buttrick in 1891, Mr. Dort has carried on the business under the old name of E. Buttrick & Co. Some twenty-five hands are here employed. About 1,200 cords of pine lumber is used yearly in making pails and tubs.

About 1826, Amos Sibley built a new shop at the North end which was for several years used as a peg mill but was later converted into a pail shop. This shop was vacant for some time before it came into the possession of D. W. Farrar, father of Charles D. Farrar, the present proprietor, who has been making pails and nest-buckets since 1873. Mr. Farrar employs around twenty men and consumes about 1000 cords of pine annually.

Other industries carried on here to a greater or less extent, but which have now closed, many of them long since, have been George Brown's wood-working mill at the North end, Barnard & Aldrich's scythe shop, later carried on by Amos Sibley, Whitcomb & Foristall's pail shop, which later occupied the scythe shops; Harvey Blanding's pail shop, Webster Corey's pail-handle shop, where he did hand work; Winthrop Knight's wheelwright and sash-and-blind business; potteries and earthern-ware manufacturies carried on by Constant Weaver, Col. Daniel W. Farrar, Capt. Solomon Goddard and many others during quite a long period; tanneries operated by Jason Winch, who established the business here about 1782; Lyman Wright, Moses Buss, Francis Foster and Wm. G. and Robert M. Silsby; hat manufacturing done by Charles Davis, B. F. Grosvenor and E. P. Kimball, besides carding and fulling mills and lesser industries.

The manufacturing of horse-blankets has now become the leading industry in this beautiful manufacturing village and it has been the constant growth of the Troy Blanket Mills that has made this one of the leading towns in the state. Troy is the birthplace of this branch of industry for previous to the time when the first blanket was made by Thomas Goodall in 1857 there was none made in America, all blankets used being the English square blanket, imported and expensive.* Mr. Goodall was a native of Dewsbury, England, and learned the manufacture of fabrics in his native town. He first made a cheap grade of beavers and satinets. After a few years of indifferent success by himself and others he bought back the mill, in 1857, and began the present industry in a small way. In a short time the blankets made a market for themselves, and Mr. Goodall began expanding the capacity of his plant. He bought the building known as the middle mill, and continued in business until November, 1865, when the Troy Blanket Mills was formed by J. H. Elliot, R. H. Porter and Barrett Ripley of Keene, who purchased Mr. Goodall's entire property, and that gentleman went to Sanford, Maine, where the mills built up by him have created a large and flourishing village. The Troy mill was then a two-set mill, with but nine looms. The brick mill was erected in 1869, enlarged in 1877 and the machinery removed here from the old mill which was abandoned. The new mill was enlarged in 1880, again in 1887, when the office was built; in 1889, by the addition of the engine house, store house and west wing, and again in 1890 and 1892. A new mill was built in 1899 and is operated as a part of the same industry. Twenty sets of cards are now used and three hundred hands employed in doing a yearly business of around $100,000. Barrett Ripley was superintendent until 1887 when his son, Franklin, took his place which he has since filled. The company was incorporated Jan. 1, 1887 with $80,000 capital stock. W. H. Elliott is president; W. R. Porter, treasurer.

The box shop of the Platts Box Co. near the station was established by O. C. Whitcomb who sold to Geo. W. S. Platts in June, 1906 The present corporation was organized the same year, with Dr. H. S. Platts, president; Geo. W. S. Platts, treasurer and manager. Employment is here given to about thirty hands in the production of lock-corner packing boxes and toy tool chests.

A superior grade of fine, white granite is quarried by the Troy Granite Company, who in 1895, furnished the granite for the approaches to the Congressional Library in Washington. Quarrying has been carried on in town for three-quarters of a century, but only since the formation of the present company have they been extensively worked.

Other industries that have been carried on here within recent years have been the clothes-pin business of Austin B. Gates, and others; O. C. Whitcomb & Co.'s lock-corner box business; brick making, lastly by the Troy Brick Co., also by Capt. Thomas Wright, who made brick for all the brick buildings in town except the Congregational Church; manufacturing picture frames, by M. E. Wright, Henry J. Brown and E. P. Kimball; the manufacture of brooms, chairs and chair posts, and other articles, which in their day, have found a ready market.

MILITARY ACCOUNT.

At the breaking out of the Revolutionary War there were probably not over twenty-five men capable of bearing arms within the limits of this town. Of these men, Benjamin Tolman and Ezekiel Mixer were among the first to answer the call of alarm. They seized their muskets and proceeded toward Boston in time to dispute the progress of the British at Lexington. After over two years service together, Mr. Mixer was killed at Bennington. Jacob Newell, Jr., and Pearson Newell, brothers, enlisted early in the service. James Brewer was first lieutenant in Capt. Benjamin Mann's company raised in Keene; John Farrar, Jr. and Peter Starkey were also in the service. Many who saw service during the war, enlisting from other towns, located here in after years and were among the strongest men in town during its early struggles.

CIVIL WAR ENLISTMENTS.

The following is a list of the residents of Troy who were engaged during the four-years' war of the rebellion. * Oren S. Adams, John Amadon, Frank E. Amadon, Charles Anderson, Daniel L. Barnard, Chas. H. Barrett, Wm. Barnes, Frank Barnes, Sidney B. Bowen, Lemuell W. Brown, Thomas Bruce, Ernest Burde, John H. Burrill, Frank Burgess, Joseph F. Capron, Geo. W. Clark, Lucius H. Clement, Albert Cobb, John Collins, Robert Cosgrove, Evan Crook, Frederick P. Cutler, John Daniels, Geo. W. Derby, Lorenzo Dexter, John Douglass, John Esintrant, Danvers C. Fassett, Daniel M. Fisk, Jonas R. Foster, Edw. F. Fuller, Daniel Harris, Geo. Harris, Edw. W Harvey, Ezekiel Haskell, Nelson E. Haskell, Joseph H. Hill, Jesse Hiscock, Joel Holt, John Johnson, James Kavanaugh, James Kavan, Geo. H. Kingsman, John F. Lang, Chas. Lang, Frank Laraby, Center H. Lawrence, Houghton Lawrence, Patrick McCaffrey, Allan McLeod, Peter Morel, John Mahoney, Simeon Merrifield, Francis Page, Chas. W. Philbrick, Wm. L. Pierce, Frank Pierce, Francis S. Piper, Geo. J. Ripley, Joseph A. Roby, Frank Shattuck, Patrick Shehan, Robert M. Silsby, Daniel Smith, Henry Smith, Silas S. Stickney, Chas. H. Streeter, Lyman Spooner, Samuel M. Thompson, Lorenzo F. Tolman, Sidney E. Tolman, Geo. W. Tupper, Geo. Wallace, Robert A. Wheeler, Curtis A. Whittemore.

Mr. Joseph M. Foster, now of Troy, was a 1st Lieut., Co. G, Fifth Reg., Vermont Volunteers. Enlisted, 1861. Mustered out, 1865.

Among those living in Troy who were credited to other towns were Henry J. Amadon, Jas. O. Amadon, Geo. I. Capron, Asa B. Fisk, Frederick Lang, Frederick C. Lawrence, Alfred Lawrence, Alonzo W. Tupper.

Among those who have become residents of this town since the war who enlisted from other towns or states have been Capt. Edward F. Adams, Charles R. Applin, Irving Brooks, Asa C. Dort, John R. Dean, Andrew Foster, Joseph M. Foster, Charles H. Gove, Thomas J. Lahiff, Edw. W. Moulton, Geo. F. Maddox, Oliver L. Nash, Nelson E. Rich, Josiah Ruffles, Chas. N. Sebastian, Charles E. Thompson and Oliver P. Whitcomb.

The Grand Army Post in Fitzwilliam is attended by the veterans of this town, Charles R. Applin being commander for the present year.

A camp of Sons of Veterans mustered here on Feb. 3, 1906, now numbers about twenty-five members.

CHURCHES OF TROY.

The early religious life of the mother towns was shared by those portions which were, in 1815, enacted a separate town, and the residents of this community shared with their townsmen the support of maintaining Christian worship. The year before incorporation the people of this village erected a meeting-house and here a Congregational Church was organized Sept. 14, 1815. The day following the church voted to call the Rev. Ezekiel Rich to the pastorate and he was accordingly installed December 19 of that year. Rev. Mr. Rich remained postor until July 18,1818 when he was dismissed but remained a resident of this town until about 1845. In 1819 a religious society was formed by the name of the First Congregational Society of Troy, which aided the church in supplying the pulpit until 1824 when the "Congregational Society of Troy" succeeded the former, with a new constitution. The last meeting of this society was recorded in 1846. Rev. Seth E. Winslow, Rev. Otis C. Whiton, and Rev. Messrs. Peabody, Pitman and Erwin were supplies from 1820 to 1829 when Rev. Stephen Morse was installed the second pastor. He closed his labors in 1833 after a successful pastorate during which some thirty were added to the church.

A new religious society was formed Dec. 16, 1833 as "The Trinitarian Congregational Society of Troy'' and the question of a new house of worship discussed. The following year it was decided to build and in 1835 the present church edifice was erected of brick. Rev. Jeremiah Pomeroy became the next pastor, in 1836, remaining until 1844. Rev. Luther Townsend was installed the next pastor, in 1845, and remained fifteen years. For five years supplies filled the pulpit but in the fal. of 1865, Rev. Daniel Goodhue became pastor for three years. Others who have sustained the pastoral relation to this people have been Rev. Levi Brigham, 1868-76; Rev. James Marshall, 1877, died in 1878; Rev. David W. Goodale, 1878-83; Rev. Josiah Merrill, 1883-1891; Rev. B. W Pennock, one year from Feb., 1892; Rev. Wm. P. Clancy, 1893-1896; Rev. Dighton Moses, 1896 to March, 1898, and Rev. H. S. Kimball, the present pastor, who commenced his pastorate June 1, 1898. In 1872 the residence of Mrs. Sophronia W. Jones, by her will, became the property of the church for a parsonage. This was used and occupied as such until 1893 when the property was sold to H. A. Marshall and the present parsonage erested on Jaffrey road. During the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Kimball a debt of $1,600 has been paid and repairs and additions to the church property, including a new organ, to the value of $5,000 have been made. This church has a membership at present of one hundred and sixteen.

BAPTIST CHURCH AND SOCIETY.

''The Baptist Church of Fitzwilliam'' was organized at this village in November, 1789, with twenty-five members. At the time of the organization of Troy the church was divided into two branches, that remaining in Troy assuming the name of the "Fitzwilliam and Troy Baptist Church." Up to 1810 no regular preaching was had, but that year Rev. Arunah Allen was settled first pastor of this church. From 1817 to 1834, Rev. Darius Fisher was their pastor but his very small salary would not seem to intimate that he preached regularly. In 1836, Rev. Obed Sperry became pastor of the church which now took the name of the "First Baptist Church of Troy." Services were held at private homes and in the village schoolhouse until this time when they begun in the town-house. Their present house of worship was erected in 1848 under Rev. A. M. Piper, pastor, and extensively remodeled and vestry added in 1892. Regular services have been maintained but frequent changes have been made in its pastors.

Since 1880 the following have filled the pastorate: Rev. O. E. Brown, 1881-84; Rev. W. F. Grant, 1884-88; Rev. L. E. Scharf, 1889-91; Revs. D. R. Herrick and W. W. Hackett, to 1894; Rev. E. W. Dow, 1894-98; Rev. F. C. Wright, 1899 to 1903, except during 1901 when J. J. Townsend, D.D., filled the pulpit; Rev. S. D. Ringrose, 1904-06 and Rev. James Jones, who came to the church Nov. 20, 1906. By will of Dea. Alvah S. Clark, in Nov., 1906, a parsonage has been acquired. The church membership is now ninety-four. Baraeca classes have been recently formed and a strong Christian Endeavor society sustained.

Those in town who held more liberal religious views than those of the established churches were organized Sept. 25, 1858 as "The First Liberal Union Society of Troy." This society never had a settled minister but different preachers were employed at various times, services being held in the town hall.

CHURCH OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.

A mission of the Catholic Church was established here some years ago by the rector in charge of the Keene church. After the church at Marlboro became a station, services were conducted here in the town hall by the resident rector of that place. In 1902, Father D. A. O'Neil came to Troy and the following year erected their beautiful church. The rectory has been erected more recently. The Catholic population of the towns of Troy and Fitzwilliam is 550; both towns are under the care of Father O'Neil.

Besides these churches a Finnish chapel has been erected in the village. Rev. Mr. Kimball has been often called upon to officiate at their services as no regular preacher of their own people has been settled among them.

SCHOOL ITEMS.

The schools of Troy had become well established before this was formed a separate town, at which time three school-districts were sereved from Marlboro, three, or parts of three, from Fitzwilliam, besides smaller areas from Swanzey and Richmond. The schools of the new town were at once organized into six districts, earlier called squadrons, and the sum of $250 raised for their maintenance. The first schoolhouse erected within the limits of this town was built by Fitzwilliam in 1790, in the north squadron of that town. We need not deal with the varying changes made in the district lines, the earlier and later houses erected in the several districts, and the progress made by the schools of this town. The progress has been steady and marked, as was the advancement in social, commercial and financial circles during the same period. Not long after the new town was launched the strict "district system" was followed, continuing until by act of the Legislature the schools were placed under the present town system in 1885. The present elegant school building in the village, which accommodates most of the scholars in town, was erected in 1884-85 by an appropriation of $12,000 by the town. It is located on the old muster field at the head of the new street. The building is of brick with granite trimmings, finished within with hard pine floors and sheathing and natural slate blackboards. It is a modern building in every way, well ventilated and lighted. There are four large schoolrooms besides two rooms in the basement for play-rooms for stormy weather.

PROFESSIONAL MEN.

PHYSICIANS.

For several years the settlement at this village was too small to maintain a resident physician. When occasionally the services of one of this class were required they drove from one of the surrounding villages. In 1796, Dr. Justus Perry of Marlboro came here but remained but one year when he returned. It was not until 1811 that Dr. Ebenezer Wright became the second resident physician; three years later he returned to Fitzwilliam. Dr. Chas. W. Whitney located here in 1815 and remained during a long and useful practice. Dr. Luke Miller came in 1847, when Dr. Whitney had become somewhat impaired by age. In 1853, Dr. Miller moved to Winchendon, Mass., and was followed at this village by Dr. A. M. Caverly. In 1859, Dr. Caverly published the first "History of Troy," where the early events of the town have been fortunately perpetuated. In 1863 he removed to Pittsford, Vt., and Mary Ann Harris, daughter of Luke Harris of this town, located here. About the same time Dr. Daniel Farrar returned from the army and began practicing in this place where he continued two years, when he removed to Leominster, Mass. Dr. Daniel B. Woodward practiced until 1868, followed by B. H. Hartwell, M. D., for one year. Dr. Harris married Jabez Butler in 1896 and removed from town. Dr. John Dodge then came for a few months; Dr. Carl G. Metcalf was here from 1870 to 1872; Dr. M. S. Ferguson, for a short time. In 1879, Dr. B. E. Harriman located here but died May 23, 1880. Dr. M. T. Stone settled here Feb. 20, 1880, since which time he has built up an extensive practice. Dr. Harry S. Platts came here from Rindge about ten years ago and has remained in practice.

Until recently the only member of the legal profession who ever located here was Luther Chapman, Esq., who came here from Fitzwilliam in 1836. Jacob Rich has recently opened a law office here.

History of Jaffrey

EARLY SETTLEMENT. *

The earliest grant of a township in the vicinity of Monadnock, was made by Massachustts, in 1736, to substantiate her claim to the territory lying between the Merrimac and Connecticut rivers. This grant, made to the veteran soldiers of Rowley and known as Rowley Canada, in cluded a large part of what is now Rindge and Sharon and a portion of southeastern Jaffrey. Three years later Peterborough was granted for similar reasons to a company, many of whom were residents of old Concord, Mass. This town also included a portion of Jaffrey. When, in 1741 the present boundary line of Massachusetts was established, these early grants became void, although the Masonian Proprietors, who soon purchased the rights of Mason's Patent, generally quit-claimed the rights or settlements already occupied or improved.

The new proprietors selected Col. Joseph Blanchard to portion out the new lands around Monadnock into townships, which he did by laying out the so-called Monadnock Townships. To make room for the eastern tier of towns he moved the old Massachusetts town of Peterborough three-fourths of a mile to the east, and here laid out Monadnock, No. 1, now Rindge; Monadnock No. 2, or Middle Monadnock, now Jaf-rey; and Monadnock No. 3, now Dublin; each seven miles east and west by five miles north and south. In 1749, they granted Monadnock No. 2 to Jonathan Hubbard of Lunenburg and thirty-nine others, who began steps toward granting the lots to settlers for immediate settlement. This was not accomplished until ten years later, however, because of the trouble with the French and Indians, which soon began.

The first permanent settler in town, according to his own account, was John Grout of Lunenburg, who settled at the foot of Squantum Hill as early as 1758. Soon after he found the old clearing, one Moses Stickney had made before the Indians drove him away five years before and to this, which was south of Gilmore pond, he removed his belongings. He was an able man and a lawyer and why he should locate alone on the frontier we are not informed. His ability was inherited in good measure by his thirteen children all of whom became prominent in their chosen places and spheres. John Davidson came here from Londonderry in 1758 and made his clearing to the northeast of Grout, and Mathew Wright from the same place made a clearing where the farm of Chas. W. Fassett now is, within a mile of Grout's door. Francis Wright, his son, settled near by.

Alexander McNeal settled near the center of the town and almost before the road was built was keeping an inn. William Mitchell, a Scotchman, settled on the farm now of William McCormack. James Nichols, John Swan and Thomas Walker, George Wallace and Robert Weir were among the first to arrive. William Turner settled on the Baldwin place, still owned by his descendants. Northeast of the center of the township three more Turners, Solomon, Joseph and Thomas, were among the first to fell the trees in those parts. Four Caldwells came to town. It is supposed that they also were from Londonderry, but they had lived for a time in Peterborough, where one of them had taught school. John Borland, first a farmer and afterward a miller, made a clearing near the place that W. E. Nutting now owns. William Smiley became a neighbor of Grout on the shore of Gilmore pond. Hugh Dunlap's land joined Grout's on the West. Near by was Joseph Hodge, who gave to Hodge pond its name. Where Eleazer W. Heath now lives, John Gilmore made a cabin. This was the most thickly settled part of the town. In the extreme southeast, near Grout's former settlement, Ephraim Hunt from old Concord built a mill and Daniel Davis cleared a farm. In the southwest John Harper, who afterward won fame as a soldier, built himself a home. At the center of the town, on the Lucius A. Cutter farm, lived Roger Gilmore, a typical good "townsman."

In 1769 there appears to have been not far from thirty settlers in "No. 5," or Middletown, as it was then called. Some who had settled early here again took up their march to the wilderness and their names have become associated with the towns to which they emigrated. They preferred solitude to society. Capt. Jonathan Stanley and his son-in-law, Col. Enoch Hale, afterward of Revolutionary fame, came here from Rindge in time to assist in preparing a petition for the incorporation of the proprietary. They employed Col. Hale as their agent, to present the petition which bore date of 1773. In this was stated there were "more than forty families, and many more that have begun settlements." Others prominent in the early town were Phineas Spaulding, Benj. Prescott, John Eaton, Joseph Cutter, John Cutter, Ebenezer Hathorn and Col. Jedediah Sanger.

The petition of the inhabitants was favorably received and on the 17th of August, 1773, a charter was duly granted by John Wentworth, governor; "and as it happened that George Jaffrey, one of the Masonian Proprietors, was a member of the governor's council at that time, the name of the township was changed in his honor."

The first town meeting was held for the election of officers at the house of Francis Wright, innholder, on the farm now owned by Dana S. Jaquith. Capt. Jonathan Stanley, William Smiley and Phineas Spaulding were chosen the first board of selectmen, and Roger Gilmore, tythingman. At another meeting held the same month, "Eighty pounds was voted to be expended on the roads and Six Pounds Lawful Money" to support the gospel. The town was now well launched and was at once called upon to deal with questions of national importance and to strike for liberty.

INDUSTRIAL.

The earliest mills built in this town were located at Squantum in the southeast corner near Rindge. Albert Annett of that place, who has made a study of the history of Jaffrey, informs us that in 1758 both saw and grist mills were in operation here by Jonathan Hopkinson. That year he deeded these to Ephraim Hunt of Acton, Mass., who has been generally thought to have built the mills. In 1774, John Eaton came to this part of the town, purchased the mills of Mr. Hunt, and began a line of manufacturing and repairing such as only a man of his genius could do. He became one of the useful men of the settlement. A fulling and carding mill was also connected with these mills prior to 1800 during a period when these were as necessary to the housewife as was the grist mill for preparing flour and meal.

The first mill at East Jaffrey was built about 1770 by John Borland, one of the Scotch-Irish pioneers. On May 1, 1778, Mr. Borland sold his mill property to Dea. Eleazer Spofford of Danvers, Mass., and soon after removed from town. Dea. Spofford made many improvements, and at once became a prominent citizen of the town. Joseph Lincoln had a clothier's shop near the site of Webster's tack manufactory at that time, and with Abner Spofford's blacksmith shop the list of business enterprises at this place seems to be complete. In 1813, Dea. Spofford disposed of his mill property and privilege to a company consisting of Dr. Adonijah Howe, Samuel Dakin, Artemas Lawrence, Nathaniel Holmes, Jr., Caleb Searle, William Hodge, John Stevens and Samuel Foster, who were incorporated under the name of "The First Cotton and Woolen Factory in Jaffrey." The following year they erected the old wooden mill which is still remembered by many citizens of the town; this is said to have had a capacity of one thousand spindles. This company conducted the business here for twenty-one years when they sold, in 1834, to William Ainsworth, who soon after deeded the saw and grist mill to Samuel Patrick and three years later the cotton mill became the property of Solomon Richardson, Perkins Bigelow and Edwin Walton. In 1844, the cotton factory came into the possession of Alonzo Bascom and others. He largely increased the capacity of the old Cheshire mill, and built the brick mill in East Jaffrey. He died in the midst of a successful career in September, 1872.* In 1877, White Brothers of Winchendon, purchased the East Jaffrey mill, and about 1884, the Cheshire mill. They have remained in uninterrupted activity and in 1898 greatly increased their plant by an addition to the East Jaffrey mill. Three hundred and eighty-four looms are in constant operation, and two hundred and seventy-five hands are employed in the manufacture of blue denim. The weekly pay-roll of $4,200 is the mainspring of active business in the entire community. Joseph White has been in charge of the mill for many years.

The site of a fulling mill at East Jaffrey built by Joseph Foster in the olden days and later owned by Samuel Foster is now occupied by the manufactory of the Granite State Tack Co. This business was established in 1894 by Wilbur Webster who was succeeded by his son, Wilbur E., upon his death in July, 1905. Twenty-five hundred pounds of shoe tacks are made weekly. Formerly Mr. Webster conducted a shoe-knife and cutlery business here for some twenty years.

A mill was early built south of the meeting-house, now the town-house, by William Davidson and another at the spring village by Abram Bailey. Edward Bailey later erected a woolen mill on the site of the latter; this was burned and a wooden-ware establishment was built to replace it. Other early mills were used for short periods but time has crumbled them to dust while their old sites are marked only by buried logs or stones which once formed dams across their respective streams. C. L. Stratton Box & Lumber Co. have a steam mill in the village which was formerly used as a blacksmith shop. Lock-corner boxes, and long lumber and other sawed material are the output.

ANNETT MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

The mill at Squantum was operated variously for the manufacture of chairs, clothes pins and other wooden articles. In 1858, when Thomas Annett came from Rindge to act as superintendent of this plant it consisted of a saw-mill, a pail manufactory and a clothes pin shop. Two years later the box business was begun here and about twelve men employed. Extensive additions were made and the business rapidly increased. In 1890 the west wing was built on and the other the year following. In 1896 the business was incorporated as the Annett Mfg. Co., with Albert A. Annett, president. On May 25, 1906, an explosion occurred in the old brick building which had been erected about 1840 as a starch factory. This concern makes a line of round veneer boxes used for figs, butter, confectionery, etc., and employs fifty hands regularly. On the Contoocook river, near the Peterborough line, M. L. Hadley succeeded to one of the early mills where he turned out chair stock. He was here succeeded by L. Richardson.

The industrial life of this town is by no means confined to the shops and factories for the many fertile farms are a source of great income. The region about Monadnock is becoming yearly more popular as a summer resort and many houses have been opened for the accommodation of the throngs who come here for recuperation and rest. This region is within easy distance from Boston and other cities while for delightful scenery it is not surpassed in New England south of the White Mountains. The beautiful Contoocook river which rises on the slopes of Monadnock, following its downward course through the town, furnishes many superior water privileges and adds a charm to the scenic beauties of the landscape.

MILITARY.

The alarm from Lexington reached Jaffrey too late to call out those who would have gone, but this town, which then had a population of but three hundred and fifty-one, is credited with eleven men in the Battle of Bunker Hill. Most of these were members of the company of Capt. Philip Thomas of Rindge, of which John Harper of Jaffrey was first lieutenant. Others from Jaffrey who received remuneration for articles lost in the battle were Dudley Griffin, Jacob Pierce and Benj. Dole. "Seventy-three soldiers from Jaffrey served in the Continental army, and though the term of actual service was in many instances short, yet the number indicates something of the sacrifice and patriotic spirit of the inhabitants." *

During the war of 1812-14, a company of soldiers from this and surrounding towns, under Capt. Oliver Warren, marched to Portsmouth where they remained for service a few weeks but were not called into active engagements. David Cutter and George F. Cutter, from this town were engaged in the Mexican War.

JAFFREY CHURCHES.

There seems to have been no meeting-house erected in town prior to incorporation although the charter to the proprietors called for the early erection of such a building and the settlement of a regular preacher. Soon after the town was organized the house was build and it is said that the frame was raised the day the Battle of Bunker Hill was fought, although we find no statements to substantiate this belief. This was a large house sixty feet long, forty-five feet wide with twenty-seven foot posts. It was surrounded on three sides by a high gallery and on either end had a porch for entering. Up to 1823 the meeting-house was used only by the town minister but beginning that year it was occupied by each of the denominations in town their proportionate share of time until they had erected for themselves more convenient church homes. The house was repaired in 1823, a bell tower erected by subscription, and a bell purchased with the proceeds from the sale of pews which were then put in in place of seats. In 1844, the last religious denomination to erect a house for their own use, the Universalists, completed their house at East Jaffrey, and from this time until 1870, when over $1,000 was expended in finishing a room for school purposes, it was used only for town meetings. The house has been kept in repair by the John Conant fund given for that purpose and still stands a monument to its hardy builders.

Itinerants, supplies and candidates were employed as preachers for some time before the Rev. Laban Ainsworth became the first settled pastor over this people. A church was incorporated May 18, 1780 with thirty-one members and about the same time called Rev. Caleb Jewett to the pastorate. Why he did not accept the call is not known but such was the fact. Rev. Mr. Ainsworth, a Dartmouth graduate, was one of the next preachers and on Dec. 10, 1782 he was installed pastor. It is said that Rev. Mr. Ainsworth's connection as pastor was not severed until seventy-six and a half years later when he passed away at the age of one hundred years. He was a man of inestimable value in the town, beloved and consecrated.

In 1831, Rev. Giles Lyman was ordained as a colleague, remaining for six years of successful service. Rev. Josiah D. Crosby was settled in 1838 and dismissed in 1850; Rev. Leonard Tenney followed him until 1857; Rev. John S. Batchelder, settled in 1858, was dismissed in 1865; Rev. Rufus Case, settled in 1868, removed in 1875, soon after which Rev. W. W. Livingston, the present pastor, came to the church. Their present house of worship at the Center was erected in 1831.

EAST JAFFREY CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

In 1850 a new society of the Congregationalists was formed and incorporated by those members living in the East village and their present house of worship erected. On Feb. 28, 1851, Rev. J. E. B. Jewett began his services and on September 26, following, was ordained pastor, dismissed July 13, 1852. Successive pastors of this society have been Revs. Geo. A. Adams, D. N. Goodrich, F. D. Austin, Wm. H. Dowden, Silas W. Allen, John C. Staples, E. J. Riggs, 1883-86; Moses T. Runnells, 1886-89; Edw. J. Ross, came in 1890, drowned in Long Pond, July 6, 1891; Wm. H. Stuart, July, 1891-Feb. 19, 1899; J. Sherman Gove, May, 1899-November, 1903, and Rev. M. F. Hardy, who began his pastorate May 1, 1904. The parsonage beside the church was erected by the society during the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Staples, about 1880. The membership of the church is now ninety-seven. Strong senior and junior Christian Endeavor societies are a great aid in interesting the young people. The church edifice was thoroughly repaired about twenty-five years ago when a beautiful pipe organ was installed.

EAST JAFFREY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Earlier than 1814 the Baptists of this town together with those south and east belonged to a church of this order in Temple. That year this church was divided, and on May 28, the church in Jaffrey was formed at the house of Joseph Joslin with thirteen members. The first meetings were held in District No. 1 schoolhouse, preaching being had about every third Sabbath. In 1818, Rev. John Parkhurst was preacher. After 1823 the town house was occupied a part of the time, the proportionate share of the Baptists in 1829 being nine Sabbaths. In June, 1829, work was begun on the church at East Jaffrey, which was dedicated June 30, 1830. A vestry was added in 1873 and other improvements made. In 1897 new pews and memorial windows were put in in the church which is now a neat and attractive church home located in the east end of the village. Present membership, seventy-two resident, twenty-six non-resident. The Sunday School is active and progressive. The following is a list of pastors who have served the church: Rev. Calvin Greenleaf, 1831-35; Appleton Belknap, 1835-46; E. H. Bailey, 1846-62; Franklin Merriam, 1863-65; A. E. Reynolds, 1866-69; E. J. Emery, 1869-72; J. S. Haradon, 1873, d. 1875; Leonard J. Dean, 1875-79; T. C. Gleason, 1879-87; R. S. Mitchell, 1887-89; H. H. Mansur, 1889, d. 1905; R. A. Bakeman, Nov. 1905.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

A society of this faith was incorporated in 1779 including Jaffrey and Rindge by act of the legislature and was the third of the kind in the world. Since that time nearly continuous services have been held but for many years no pastors were settled. The meeting-house was erected in the village in 1844. A bell was placed in the belfry in 1860, replaced by a better one in 1870. About 1878 the clock was placed here by the town. The interior of the church was entirely remodeled in 1891. A new pipe organ was given by Albert Baldwin in memory of his mother, at a cost of $1500. Rev. Stillman Clark was pastor from 1839 to 1851. Rev. E. W. Coffin came to the church in 1857, remaining until 1867. Rev. J. P. McCleur was pastor in 1869; Rev. W. J. Crosby, 1870 and '71; Rev. J. H. Little came in 1875; Rev. Frederick W. Bailey, three years; Rev. J. S. Scoboria, five years, and since Oct. 1, 1887, Rev. Myron L. Cutler, has been pastor. The church membership is now eighty.

A church has also been erected here by the Catholics of the town which is now under the care of Rev. Father Barnardine, who has recently succeeded Fr. H. A. Hennon. We have been unable to secure an account of the church.

SCHOOLS.

The earliest schools of this town followed the course of those of their time. The struggling pioneers were not forgetful of the needs of education but were unable to provide more than meagre opportunities for their numerous children, for other and often more pressing questions were before them. In 1775 there seems to have been five schools in town for the eight pounds raised that year for schools was to be divided into five parts. Three years later eight districts were made, and the next year ten; these changes show activity in school matters although it was some years before a definite system could be established on account of the increasing population. No attempt was made on the part of the town to build schoolhouses until 1788, when a vote was passed requiring each district to erect a house within eighteen months. This vote was of little avail for we find record of several attempts made to build the houses until in 1795 when the selectmen were instructed to attend to completing the ten houses in town. Of the earliest teachers little is known, but the names of Samuel Litch, who taught in his own district for nineteen years besides many years in other districts; Asa Parker, Edw. Spaulding and Thomas Adams are known to have been successful masters. Distinguished female teachers were Sally Stevens, Hitty Brooks, Maria Blanchard and Sarah Robbins, the last mentioned teaching forty terms in town.

An attempt was made in 1805 to establish an academy here and a building site was voted by the town. A school was also kept here from 1807 to 1809 by Josiah Forsaith but no further results seem to have been realized.

In 1832 Melville Academy was incorporated, and was so named for Jonas M. Melville, a generous donator to the enterprise. The brick building which has long outlived the institution was erected the following year and the school opened that autumn under the instruction of Horace Herrick, principal, and Miss Aurelia Townsend, assistant. The academy remained in operation until the establishment of Conant High School and was presided over by R. D. Hitchcock, Wm. Eaton, Harry Brickett, Chas. Cutter, David C. Chamberlin, and Sarah French. The building is now occupied by the Center School.

In 1868, John Conant, Esq., gave the town $7,000, the interest of which was to be used for a free high school. This was first held one term in the town-house at the Center and one term at the East village. With the increase of the village at East Jaffrey new and commodious buildings were erected and the high school is now held there during all the school year.

PROFESSIONAL MEN.

Dr. Adonijah Howe, born in Brookfield, Mass., came to Jaffrey in 1776 and was, with only one exception, the only physician in town for over thirty years. He was not only an able and trusted physician but filled many public offices of honor and trust within the gift of the people. Dr. Willis Johnson began practice here in 1807 but removed to Peterborough in 1809. Abner Howe, M. D., son of Dr. Adonijah Howe, commenced the practice of medicine in Jaffrey about this time but soon removed to Beverly, Mass. Adonijah Howe, Jr., M. D. studied medicine with his father, attended lectures at Dartmouth, and received the degree of M. D. in 1812. He began practice in Jaffrey but died in 1815. Luke Howe, another brother, studied law with Samuel Dakin, of Jaffrey and began the practice of law here in 1814. He then studied medicine for four years and located here becoming a distinguished and successful physician. Darwin C. Perry came to East Jaffrey in 1832, removed to Woodstock, Vt., in 1836. Dr. Amasa Kennie came here soon after the death of Luke Howe in 1841, remaining until 1850, when he removed to Vermont. Dr. S. L. Richardson located here about 1836, but soon removed on account of failing health. Roderick R. Perkins succeeded him about 1842, died here in 1853. Dr. Andrew J. Gibson was in practice here from 1852 to 1854. Gurley A. Phelps, M. D., removed to Jaffrey from Hancock, Vt., in 1849. He remained in practice here for over half a century. Oscar H. Bradley, M. D., also a native of Vermont, settled at East Jaffrey about 1851. He soon acquired an extensive practice and became a leading man in town for many years. Died March 29, 1906. Dr. F. G. Humiston has been in practice here since 1886. Dr. F. C. Sweeney located here in 1897.

David Smiley was probably the earliest practicing lawyer in town; he removed to Grafton, N. H., in 1806. Samuel Dakin came from Mason in 1801, removed to Utica, N. Y., in 1815. Wm. Ainsworth, son of Rev. Laban Ainsworth, practiced law here prior to removing to New Ipswich in 1831. Albert S. Scott removed to Peterborough. Clarence A. Parks removed to Boston, Mass., 1874.

FACTS OF INTEREST.

The Clay Public Library building, one of the finest town libraries in the state, is the gift to the town of Miss Susan B. Clay, of Jaffrey, who, by her will donated a sum sufficient for its erection. The building was erected in 1895, dedicated July 4, 1896. It is constructed of red sandstone and pressed brick and is finished with a wainscoating of polished Knoxville marble. The lot for the building was presented by private subscriptions and appropriations. This building is the home of the Jaffrey Public Library which now numbers around 5,000 volumes. This is maintained by appropriations from the town. Miss Lucie Cutter is librarian.

A beautiful Granite Monument stands before the library. This was erected in 1899 to the memory of all the soldiers of Jaffrey who have fought for freedom or for the stars and stripes. The sum of $1,100 was given by the Woman's Relief Corps and the balance raised by the town. The heavy base of Barre granite is surmounted by a soldier at parade rest, in bronze. Total cost, $2,900.

The Monadnock State Bank was incorporated in 1850 with a capital of $50,000, John Conant, president; Peter Upton, cashier. In 1865 the Monadnock National Bank was incorporated, the successor to the above, with $100,000 capital. Jas. Scott was made president, with Mr. Upton, cashier. In 1870, Benj. Cutter became president. Peter Upton is now president of this institution, W. L. Goodenow, vice president, and C. L. Rich, cashier. The capital stock is now $75,000.

Monadnock Savings Bank was incorporated in 1869 with O. H. Bradley, president and Peter Upton, treasurer. The amount of funds held on deposit Dec. 31, 1907 was $494,371.72 D. P. Emery is president; Alfred Sawyer and J. E. Prescott, vice presidents; John G. Townsend, treasurer.

Jaffrey's Water System is one of the best to be found in

New Hampshire. It is maintained at little expense, a good pressure being had by the force of gravity. The reservoir is located in Rindge, known as Bullet pond, a distance of six miles from the Center village which is supplied as well as the East village, private places between, and Shattuck's Inn, one mile west of the Center. Practically the whole system was installed in 1902 at a cost of $60,000. The water is from boiling springs in the bottom of the lake, pure and clear for domestic use, with pressure sufficient for ample fire protection.

History of Swanzey

EARLY ACCOUNT.

The earliest residents of the valley of the Ashuelot were the Squakheags, a tribe of Indians who roved the territory from Miller's river to the head waters of the Ashuelot and from Wauchusett to beyond the Connecticut. Unmistakable evidences of a large settlement at the Sand Bank, on the south side of the river, are found in the large number of fragments of hard white quartz chipped from the arrow and spear heads made by them and by several stone implements and arrow heads found there, and especially by the traces of an irregular fortification, enclosing several acres of ground, which late in the last century could be traced.

When, in 1734, settlements were begun by the whites they seemed to have made no hostile movements and not until war was begun between France and England, in 1745, do we find any account of Indian disturbances. On the above year the St. Francis Indians, instigated by the government of Canada, and with the Squakeags as allies, commenced a work of pillage and destruction which temporarily suspended progress in this and all other frontier settlements for a period of five years. Nor was peace then enjoyed only long enough for the settlers to return and renew their homebuilding, when in 1754, war again broke out and the settlements were obliged to erect strong forts for their safety. The most important fort in Swanzey stood on meeting-house hill. This was manned by a squad of soldiers and served as a rendezvous for the inhabitants in time of danger. In 1759 the Indian village of St. Francis was destroyed, soon after which peace was again declared and thenceforth the settlements were undisturbed.

Among the depredations committed in Swanzey was the burning of the house of Rev. Timothy Harrington, on March 26, 1745. On the night of April 15, 1747, a party of Indians came up the river and burned the towns of Winchester, Swanzey and Keene, which had been abandoned a few days before.

By act of the General Court of Massachusetts in 1732 seven townships were granted, two to be laid out in the valley of the Ashuelot above Northfield. The township of Winchester had already been granted to Col. Willard and others so the survey made the following year was made north of this township and the grants named Lower and Upper Ashuelot. It was soon discovered that a part of the Winchester grant was included in the southwest corner of Lower Ashuelot, now Swanzey, which was conceeded to belong to that township. Sixty-three house lots were laid out in Lower Ashuelot in May, 1734, under the authority of Massachusetts, and were drawn by the members of a company who became the first proprietors. Sixty lots were intended for occupancy, one was reserved for the first settled minister, one for the ministry and one for public schools. Among the names of these grantees who were residents of the township prior to 1747 we find only Hammond, Heaton, Brown, Jones, Chamberlain, King and

* Read's History of Swanzey.

Carr, and then we find the names of Belding, Grimes, Gunn, Cresson, Hills, Graves, Evans and Loomis. *

In September, 1734, the township was visited by a body of the proprietors who chose the lands lying between "the Great River and the South Branch" for the first settlement. The following entry is shown in the proprietors' records: "Voted that the Interval between the Great River and the South Branch, and all the Interval upon the South Branch be laid out, and also so much on the South side of the Great River, Below the South Branch as the Committee which shall be Chosen to Lay out shall think Most Convenient." Sixty-three lots were soon laid out in this vicinity and the lands were opened for settlement.

The following lists shows the names of settlers who took up home lots here previous to the time of the abandonment of the town in 1747, together with the place from which they came, and the time when the names first appear on the records: Capt. Nathaniel Hammond, Littleton, Sept. 17, 1737; Samuel Hills, Sunderland, Sept. 17, 1737; Samuel Farnsworth, Sept. 17, 1737; Thomas Cresson, Sunderland, Sept. 17, 1737; Charles Lumis, Bolton, Sept. 17, 1737; William Carr, Deerfield, Sept. 17, 1737; Jethro Eames, Oct. 10, 1737; Jonathan Hammond, Littleton, Oct. 10, 1737; John Chamberlain, Oct. 10, 1737; William Grimes, Lancaster, Oct. 10, 1737; John Evens, Bolton, Oct. 26, 1737; Samuel Gunn, Sunderland, Nov. 6, 1738; Benjamin Brown, Concord, Nov. 6, 1738; Nathaniel Gunn, Dec. 28, 1738; Samuel Mitchel, Dec. 28, 1738; William Scott, Oct. 8, 1739; David Belding, Weathersfield, Conn., Dec. 28, 1738; Andrew Gardner, Oct. 9, 1739; Abraham Graves, Hatfield, Dec.

9, 1739; Timothy Brown, Brookfield, April 4, 1740; Rev. Timothy Harrington, Cambridge, Nov. 4, 1741; Nathaniel Hammond, Littleton, Nov. 4, 1741; Thomas Hammond, Littleton, Nov. 4, 1741; Eliakim King, 1743; James Heaton, Wrentham, November, 1743; Samuel Belding, Weathersfield, Conn., Dec. 12, 1743; William Arms; Joseph Hammond, Littleton, 1744; Charles Eames, Sept. 28, 1746; Samuel Chamberlain, Sept. 28, 1746; Samuel Hills, Jr., Sept. 28, 1746; Timothy Hammond, Littleton, Sept. 27, 1746; Jonathan Frary, previous to 1747.

When these were forced to leave their newly made settlement in 1747 they scattered throughout Massachusetts. A few attempted to return before 1751, probably others did return that year, but most of them waited until the next season when the homes were again built up.

This township was chartered by New Hampshire, July 2, 1753, when it took the name Swanzey. By this charter the settlers and proprietors had confirmed to them the lands previously granted by Massachusetts. Besides the settlers already mentioned, the names of Jonathan Woodcock, Jonathan Woodcock, Jr., Ebenezer Sprague and Ebenezer Sprague, Jr., which appear among the list of grantees became residents.

On account of the unsettled state of affairs only a few new persons came to settle here between 1752 and 1762. Rev. Ezra Carpenter came in 1753; Israel Day's name appears soon after; Wm. Wright's in 1758 and Joseph Whitcomb's in 1760.

A large gore of land lying on the east of Swanzey was set off from the town of Richmond and annexed to this town, Dec. 11, 1762. This was soon opened for settlement and as an influx of home-seekers soon came to the new towns on the frontier the unoccupied lands in town were fast taken up. The proprietors maintained their organization and did business until well along in the last century when the common lands were disposed of. The northern point of the tract of land annexed from Richmond was set off to Marlboro in 1793. In 1812 a small section on the northeast was set off to Keene; and in 1842, another section of the Richmond gore was set off to Marlboro. In 1815 a portion on the east was taken to form the town of Troy, leaving the boundary of Swanzey very irregular.

During the period from 1762 to 1777 the settlement became a flourishing community. Among the new names that appear during this time are the Applins, Bishops, Cummingses, Caleb Cook, the Dickinsons, Benj. Day, the Durants, Folletts, Frazys, Calvin Frink, Asa Freeman, the Greens, Griffiths, Edw. Goddard, the Hazens, Hefferons, Howes, Hewes, Harveys, Willard Hunt, Pelitiah Kazey, the Kimballs, Lanes, Justus Lawrence, Henry Morse, the Nichols, Elijah Osgood, Aaron Parsons, Samuel Page, John Plane, Amasa Parker, Nathaniel Patten, Josiah Prime, Simeon and Amos Puffer, Josiah Reed, Cornelius Roberts, John Rugg, Penticost Stanley, the Starkeys, Thompsons, Annanias Tubbs, Daniel Warner, James Wheelock, the Whites, Whitcombs, and Moses B. Williams.

INDUSTRIES.

WEST SWANZEY.

The proprietors early directed their attention toward having a saw mill built within the new township for the encouragement of settlers. A grant of 200 acres of land "adjoining to the Upper Great Falls in the Great River" was made to Ephraim Jones of Concord provided that he should construct a saw mill and keep it in operation for a period of ten years. This mill was built by Mr. Jones prior to Aug. 15, 1736, the time limit given him, on the east side of the river at the lower part of the falls. Parts of the old dam are yet to be seen at each bank of the river below the present dam. About three years later a grist mill was put in. We find no record of any families being settled in this part of the town until after the place was destroyed by the Indians in 1747 when, it is supposed, the mills were also burned. Mr. Jones died before the returning settlers reclaimed their lands and as he had not gained a clear title the property reverted to the proprietors.

Joseph Whitcomb and his son, Joseph, Jr., obtained a right to the water privilege here soon after their arrival in town prior to 1760. The proprietors granted them four acres of land adjoining their right. They immediately erected saw and grist mills on the east side. Joseph Whitcomb became the most prominent business man in town from that time to 1790 when he removed to Grafton, Vt. He and his son, Abijah, were the first to build mills on the west side which they begun about 1771; this they conveyed to Gen. Philemon Whitcomb, a brother to Abijah, in 1790. We are told that Philemon was interested in the mills when erected and so remained until he enlisted in the Revolution. During his service he rapidly rose to the distinction of a general. Others of the Whitcomb family became interested in the mill property as also Benj. Wilcox and Otis Capron, who married daughters of Joseph Jr. The operations of these men were confined for many years to the four acres granted by the proprietors. The remainder of the original Mill Farm which contained 400 acres lying south and west of the mills was settled upon by James Heaton, Jr., son of one of the proprietors.

We shall not attempt to trace each of the many and varied industries that have been conducted here.

In 1842 the making of wooden ware commenced here. Pails, sap-buckets, covered buckets, boot forms. Lock-corner boxes, chair stock and chairs, and brush woods have been made in this village.

In 1866, Laton Martin, O. G. Dort, John Bowker and Obadiah Sprague formed a partnership under the name of the Stratton Mill Co. with $40,000, purchased all the mill and water power at West Swanzey and erected a large mill for the manufacture of woolen and cotton goods, lumber and wooden ware. The new mill was erected of brick during 1868. In March, 1887, the property of the Stratton Mills Co. was merged into a stock company and the name changed to West Swanzey Mfg. Co. with Ansel Dickinson of Winchester, president, and Mr. Sprague, treasurer. Black and gray beaver cloth, cashmeretts and flannels were manufactured. Firms engaged in making wooden ware have leased the mill fitted for that purpose. The West Swanzey Box Co., which is now doing a good business here succeeded Snow & Russell in 1900. Previous to 1894 S. W. Snow was in business alone in this mill. The present concern employs forty hands in the manufacture of lock-corner boxes. A $75,000 business is done annually. E. C. Emery is superintendent.

The Woolen Mill is now carried on by the Granite Woolen Mills who employ sixty-five hands and do $100,000 annual business. This is under the supervision of S. M. Lambert.

The old established lock-corner box manufactory of the Whitcomb Mfg. Co. has been carried on by the present concern for eight years during which time the business has greatly increased. Boxes, buckets, pails, packages, etc., are made and shipped to all parts. Eighty-five hands are employed.

Snow & Brindell Co. is carrying on a large box business near the railroad in the mill built by Frank L. Snow in 1882, and opened the same year by Solomon W. Snow & Sons. The mill was burned the following year and rebuilt in 1884. The present company was incorporated in 1902. Fifty hands are employed. Cushing Adams is general manager.

SWANZEY FACTORY VILLAGE.

The first mills in Swanzey after the town was resettled were built at this place by David Belding, Joshua Graves, Elisha Scott and Abner Graves, under the encouragement of the proprietors of Keene. In 1811 this privilege came into the possession of the Swanzey Factory Co., a company with a capital of $40,000 chartered for "spinning cotton and woolen yarn or weaving the same into cloth." At first only cotton cloth was made; this was distributed among the families to be woven on the hand looms. Later looms were placed in the mill. This mill was in operation up to 1848 when it was burned. The saw mill here had been used for making pail stock. This was now bought by Abel Powers and converted into a comb shop with little success. Orren Dickinson bought the shop in 1851 and erected a large, substantial building which he used as a grist mill and for making doors, sashes and blinds. This privilege has now come into the possession of the Keene Gas and Electric Light Co., which has erected an electric power station here and at Spragueville. The village of West Swanzey is lighted by this company. Some forty lights were installed on the streets in August, 1906, as well as in many of the homes and churches.

At East Swanzey the first mills were built by John Whitcomb about 1780. The dam was at the point now occupied by Mr. Ramsdell's upper privilege. After several changes in ownership William Ryder and Phineas Stone erected a two-story mill where Ramsdell's now stands and dug a canal for obtaining power. From this time to 1882 when J. M. Ramsdell purchased the property dozens of men had been interested in the manufacture of about as many lines of goods, most of which were of wood. Mr. Ramsdell has continued the manufacture of wooden ware and is now employing about 15 hands in the manufacture of pails. In 1884, Wilder P. Clark purchased the pail business established in 1831 by Benjamin Page. During the seventies the old mill was burned and the present one built. The business has passed through several owners and operators. A good business has been carried on by Mr. Clark. The pail shop of C. M. Lane & Co. was established in 1849 by Howe and Willis. In 1869, G. F. Lane secured the property. He at once rebuilt the mill which had been burned and many substantial additions have been since made. His son, C. M. Lane, succeeded to the business. About fifty men are employed here in the manufacture of various kinds of wooden ware. The mill now operated by G. E. & A. I. Fuller near the Graves Place occupies a site that has been used for manufacturing for over one hundred years. The present owners purchased the property in 1890 of Elisha F. Lane, who had bought of Geo. F. Lane in 1878. Both of these men made substantial improvements to the property. Fuller Brothers make buckets entirely, at which they employ about fifteen hands.

Westport.—It is thought that the first mills at this village were built about 1780 by John Richardson, Daniel Franklin and Abijah Brown. They consisted of a saw and grist mill. Later carding and shingle mills were added. In 1827, a fulling mill was started by Levi Willard. Cloth dressing and the manufacture of bobbins and pails were later carried on in this mill. Shoe pegs, brush-woods, were also made at this village. On Oct. 10, 1846, all the mills in the village were burned. Three mills were at once put up, two of which were burned just ten years from the time of the other fire. That built by John Chamberlain is the same now occupied by James Marsh, who began here in 1865 with E. F. Reed. Since 1878, Mr. Marsh has conducted the business alone. He makes pails and employs now about thirty hands. Several other pail shops have been operated here and large numbers of hands have been employed.

At Spragueville a saw mill was erected very early in the last century. This passed through various fortunes until 1877, when the property was purchased by Obadiah Sprague, who immediately built two large mills, one for the manufacture of woolen goods and the other for wooden ware. Mr. Sprague operated about eighteen months when he leased the woolen mill to Logan & Lindsey of Worcester. After about nine months the mills were both burned. The wooden ware mill was rebuilt and occupied by the Cheshire Box Co. The site is now owned by the Electric Light Company.

Many other shops and mills have been operated in various parts of the town, much attention having been given to making pails, buckets, etc., from the excellent pine lumber which clothed the hillsides.

MILITARY AFFAIRS.

To the earliest settlers in Swanzey a military training was indispensable, and to the succeeding generation it was declared a necessity. During the stirring times of the Revolution all who were sixteen or over, up to the age of sixty-five, were required to prepare for military duty either for home protection or to enter the field. But to many who were able to enter the field no pressure was required to bring them in battle line. Immediately after the battle of Concord, Capt. Jos. Hammond marched a company of militia to Cambridge; and at the battle of Bunker Hill, Capt. Jonathan Whitcomb was in command of a company of Swanzey soldiers. Our limited space forbids a recitation of all the parts taken by the men of this town who entered the Continental army, and by those who remained at home and by their sacrifices made provision for the maintenance of the men who carried the muskets. A full and interesting account may be found in Read's History of Swanzey . In this, as in the War of 1812, Swanzey showed a military prowess of which her sons and daughters of today are justly proud.

CIVIL WAR SOLDIERS.

When the call for men to support the Union was made the martial spirit of the fathers was at once awakened. The first calls were met and filled by volunteers from the sons, husbands and fathers of the people. Later when the demands became too heavy to be filled in this manner the town offered liberal bounties and filled her quotas promptly. The individual records of these men show honorable and valliant conduct.

The following is a list of men from Swanzey, who enlisted during the service: Chas. R. Applin, Henry S. Applin, Philo Applin, Warren F. Allen, Roswell C. Aldrich, Frederic Abel, Davis S. Aldrich, Luther Beal, Albert A. Ballou, Fernando B. Bennett, Henry R. Bowden, Willard Bragg, Sanford Bowles, Orrin Black, Jr., Frances Brady, George Burns, Horace Barney, Chas. H. Barber, Geo. B. ECCLESIASTICAL ACCOUNT.

The first church in Swanzey was organized as a Congregational body Nov. 4, 1741, eight years after the grant was made by Massachusetts. The pioneers were imbued with a spirit of reverence for sacred things, instilled by living close to nature and deepened by a feeling of needed protection as well as by hearts filled with a desire to worship. For some time before the above data ministers were employed, two of whom had been called to settle among them, but these had declined. Steps were also being taken toward erecting a meeting-house. On the day of the organization, Rev. Timothy Harrington was installed their pastor, remaining until after the settlement was broken up and scattered when he was dismissed to settle in Lancaster, Mass. A schoolhouse was erected in the settlement which served for meeting-house, schoolhouse, and for conducting town affairs.

After the return of the settlers a union of the churches of Swanzey and Keene was effected, Aug. 21, 1753, when Rev. Ezra Carpenter became their joint pastor and so continued for seven years. He then remained with the Swanzey church until 1764. A meeting-house was built soon after the resettlement; this, tradition says, was turned one quarter round by the tornado which swept over the town in 1764 when several houses were unroofed and otherwise damaged. Rev. Edw. Goddard was the settled pastor in 1769 and continued to be minister of the church and town until 1798, and maintained his connection with the church until the installation of his successor, Rev. Clark Brown, Sept. 5, 1810, when he went to the church in Warwick. During this time the church increased in membership from forty-four to one hundred and twenty-five, besides sixteen non-residents. Mr. Brown inclined toward the Episcopalian faith and remained five years, during which forty-nine were added. Rev. Joshua Chandler became settled pastor in 1819, dismissed in 1822. Rev. Ebenezer Colman was settled pastor in 1827, remaining until 1834. Rev. Elisha Rockwood was settled as a minister Nov. 16, 1836 and preached until the time of his death in June, 1858. He was an able and devoted man and was respected by all. At this time the parsonage was purchased of Dr. Willard Adams for $1,200. The last "settled minister" was Rev. John G. Wilson, who was installed June 29, 1859, and remained four years. Since that time the following stated supplies have served this church: Rev. T. E. Roberts, 1864-68; Rev. W. H. Cutler, 1868-70; Rev. Chas. Willey, 1871-73; Rev. I. E. Carpenter, 1874-77; Rev. H H. Saunderson, 1877-82; Rev. Benj. Merrill, 1882 until his death in 1888; Rev. Harvey Woodward, 1889-91; Rev. Chas. E. Milliken, 1891, died, 1896; Rev. Virgil W. Blackman, 1896-1900; Rev. L. C. Kimball, 1901-04, and Rev. Geo. A. Furness, who came in 1905.

A new church building was erected on the site of the present town hall (which is the same edifice remodeled) about 1796. This was made quite a pretentious edifice, two stories, galleries, two porches and a belfry and steeple, with three doors leading within where were the regular box-pews of the times. In 1850 this building was remodeled into the present townhouse. The brick meeting-house was erected by this people in 1836. This has been repaired and remodeled from time to time. It has but recently been refitted and refurnished, a furnace put in and a new pipe organ, the gift of Geo. B. Holbrook, of Springfield, Mass., installed. Twelve hundred dollars has been expended. The church was rededicated March 5-6, 1908. In 1890 the new chapel was built in the rear of the church at a cost of about $1,100. The membership is now sixty-two, the largest reported for fifteen years.

BAPTIST CHURCH—WEST SWANZEY.

This church was formed in 1792 by about twenty-five members, citizens of Swanzey, Keene and Winchester, and called the "Baptist Church of Swanzey and Winchester." In 1804 the church became incorporated and the meeting-house erected after the style of the period. Prior to this the intermittent services were held at the homes of the members and schoolhouses. On Feb. 12, 1806, Dea. Wm. McCullor was ordained pastor. Whether he remained with this church long does not appear, but this seems to have been a prosperous period for in 1812 the membership had reached eighty-two, and as "Winchester" was dropped from the name of this church in 1809 it is presumed that these members had withdrawn to form a church at that place. Dea. Tristan Aldrich was ordained in 1823 when there seems to have been a division in the church. Some fifteen members who were dismissed gained control of the house of worship so that for several years this society had to worship in dwelling houses. Elder Aldrich was released in 1832 followed by many preachers whose terms of service were generally brief. In 1843 the box-pews were replaced by slip-pews, and the house otherwise remodeled. A parsonage was built in 1851; and the meeting-house again remodeled and rededicated in 1874. The present parsonage was erected in 1890 when the old one was sold to H. Denman Thompson. The church building is now a convenient and attractive church home. It was not long ago newly sheathed through the liberality of Mr. Snow, since which time electric lights have been put in. The membership is now about forty. Rev. Tristan Aldrich, long connected with the church, died in 1871. Rev. E. J. Emery became pastor in 1873 remaining until 1883; Rev. S. G. Abbott, pastor, 1883-90; Rev. C. F. Clark, 1890-96; Rev. T. E. Harlow, 1896-97; Thomas Cain, 1897-1901; Robert Bennett, 1902-1903; Rev. B. F. Kellog came in September, 1903.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCHES.

Various unsuccessful attempts were made to establish preaching in Swanzey by the early itinerants of this faith. In 1840 services were conducted at Swanzey Factory and East Swanzey, and a class was formed at the latter place which was connected with the Keene charge. In 1860 services were held by Rev. T. L. Fowler in the schoolhouse at Westport with some success. In 1867 he began regular services in Bartlett's Hall, Westport, which were continued for three years, but then abandoned. In 1877, Mr. Fowler was employed to preach at West Swanzey and at Westport on alternate Sundays in the Universalist Church. As a result of these services a class of over twenty members was formed September 19, and on July 3, 1878 a church of eighteen members was organized. From this time services were generally, but not always sustained. In 1887 a chapel was erected at Westport, and in 1892 the new church at the West village was built. The church at Westport has generally been supplied from Winchester, recent pastors having been Rev. M. C. Pendexter, 1896; I. H. Trow, 1897-1900; M. E. Bigelow, 1901-02; W. M. Cleaveland, 1903; J. T. Hooper, 1904-07. West Swanzey was supplied from the Keene Church up to 1899 when Rev. Wm. Thompson of the Marlboro church came here, since which time the church has been supplied from that town. This church, as were all the churches of this village, was given a beautiful pipe organ by H. Denman Thompson, the celebrated playwright, whose home is in this town.

THE UNIVERSALIST SOCIETY.

Frequent services were held by residents holding this faith in town until about 1836 when a society was organized and Rev. Joseph Barber settled pastor. His brother, Rev. Wm. N. Barber, succeeded him and Rev. Jas. Bailey preached more or less until 1842 when Mt. Caesar Seminary was established and placed in charge of Rev. L. J. Fletcher, of this denomination. He was succeeded by Rev. J. S. Lee, and in 1853, by S. H. McCollester, D.D., who held services both at the school and at West Swanzey. This year the church edifice at that village was erected and another society formed. Later in the ministry of Dr. McCollester, which lasted five years, a church of thirty-five members was organized at the Center. Upon Dr. McCollester's leaving the seminary was suspended and no stated preaching had until the settlement of Rev. N. R. Wright at West Swanzey. Rev. Emma E. Bailey, Rev. R. T. Polk, Dr. S. H. McCollester, Rev. J. H. Little and Rev. G. L. Thompson have been later preachers for short periods up to 1903 since which time no services have been held.

A new church edifice has recently been erected by the Catholics of the town at West Swanzey where services are held fortnightly by Fr. F. D. O'Neil of the church at Ashuelot. Formerly services were held here at the Hotel Hall.

PHYSICIANS.

Nathaniel Hammond was the first physician, died Oct. 11, 1773; Calvin Frink, died 1821; Israel Sawyer, died Jan. 18, 1832; Ezra Thayer, lived in school district, No. 8; Abel Wilder, removed from town; Paul Raymond, died 1814; Ephraim K. Frost, came in 1819; Henry Baxter, lived on Denman Thompson's place, 1820-53; Daniel Linsey, removed in 1828; N. B. Barton, West Swanzey, died 1852; Samuel D. King, at Congregational parsonage, 1835-45; John F. Jennison (Eclectic), 1844; Willard Adams, Congregational parsonage, 1845-71; D. L. M. Comings, West, 1853-63; F. H. Underwood (Eclectic), West, 1857; Geo. I. Cutler, West, since 1865. Drs. Chesley, Russell and Whitmore for short periods during the last eighteen years; Dr. A. Hopkins, now in practice.

LIBRARIES.

A Village Library was started at East Swanzey in 1873, which was purchased of the stockholders by A. B. Read and given to the Mount Caesar Union Library Association, a body largely composed of the ladies of the central and eastern portions of the town. This was organized in 1880. In 1885, Mr. George Carpenter presented the old Academy building to this association to be used only for educational or literary purposes. The sum of $1,200 was raised by voluntary subscription and the building thoroughly remodeled. The hall in the third story was converted into an antiquarian room where a large collection has been made.

The Stratton Free Library at West Swanzey was erected in 1885 by Geo. William Stratton, a native of this town and one of the greatest musicians of the last century. The building is of Roman architecture designed by Mr. Stratton from studies made by him in Italy. It is forty feet long, twenty-five feet wide with an arched ceiling twenty-two feet high. The four windows are arranged to give the most perfect light on the pictures. The two pillars of the portico are of red Scotch granite. The building is of best brick, granite and iron, is entirely firepoor, and was built to stand for ages. A large and choice selection of books, over 2,000, was given by Mr. Stratton together with the 220 choice pictures forming the Art Gallery, which were collected during the donor's travels in Europe and Africa. A large collection of sheet music forms an important and novel feature of this library; these are let out the same as books and are designed to form a series of musical instruction. In a niche made for the purpose, in the rear end of the room is an excellent marble bust of Mr. Stratton made in Rome by Mr. F. Simmons, the famous artist. The cost of the gift, complete, was over $10,000.

PART TWO

Census-1908

The population of the towns of Marlboro, Troy, Jaffrey and Swanzey, N. H., has been arranged in families where that arrangement has been possible. In addition to the resident living members, the names of the non-resident members are included. It should be borne in mind that this plan does not include the names of all former residents of this town, as the names of the non-residents appear only when one or both of the parents are still living in the town. After the name of each non-resident will be found the present address, when such address has been given to us. Non-residents are indicated by the (*).

When a daughter in a family has married, her name taken in marriage appears after her given name in parenthesis, the name preceded by a small m, thus: (m).

Following the names of the population is the occupations. To designate these we have used the more common abbreviations and contractions, as follows: Farmer—far; carpenter—car; railroad service—R R ser; student, a member of an advanced institution of learning—stu; pupil, a member of a lower grade of schools (including all who have reached the age of five years)—pl; housework—ho; laborer—lab; physician and surgeon—phy & sur; clergyman—clerg; merchant—mer; teacher—tr; blacksmith—blk; clerk—cl; bookkeeper—bk kpr; lawyer—law; mechanic mech; machinist—mach; engineer—eng; maker—mkr; worker—wkr; work—wk; shoe shop operative— s s op; cotton or woolen mill operatives —mill op; weaver—weav; spinner—spin; electrician—elec; painter—ptr; carriage work—car wk; dress maker—dr mkr; insurance—ins; traveling salesman, or commercial traveler—sales, or coml trav; music teacher—mus tr; teamster—team; general work—genl wk; mariner—mar; employ—emp; retired —retd; telephone operative—tel op; telegraph operative—teleg op.
